

The wildfire hazard potential (WHP) map is a raster geospatial product that can help to assess variations of wildfire risk at projections of fuels management levels across very large spatial scales. The specific objective of the WHP map is to depict the relative potential for wildfire that would be difficult for managers to measure. This 2020 version is based on landscape conditions at the end of 2019 and wildfire conditions resulting from temperatures a wide range of possible weather scenarios.

The WHP map is a product of the USDA Forest Service, Fire Planning Institute. For more information, see:

Usfs National Situation Fire Report:

A Review of the Forest Service Remote Automated Weather Station (RAWS) Network John Zachariassen, 2003
The RAWS network and RAWS data use systems are closely reviewed and summarized in this report RAWS is an active program created by the many land management agencies that share a common need for accurate and timely weather data from remote locations for vital operational and program decisions specific to wildland and prescribed fires A RAWS measures basic observable weather parameters such as temperature relative humidity wind speed wind direction and precipitation as well as fuel stick temperature Data from almost 1 900 stations deployed across the conterminous United States Alaska and Hawaii are now routinely used to calculate and forecast daily fire danger indices components and adjective ratings Fire business applications include the National Fire Danger Rating System NFDRS fire behavior and fire use Findings point to the fact that although the RAWS program works and provides needed weather data in support of fire operations there are inefficiencies and significant problem areas that require leadership attention at the National level

Pyne, 2015-10-15 From a fire policy of prevention at all costs to today's restored burning Between Two Fires is America's history channeled through the story of wildland fire management Stephen J Pyne tells of a fire revolution that began in the 1960s as a reaction to simple suppression and single agency hegemony and then matured into more enlightened programs of fire management It describes the counterrevolution of the 1980s that stalled the movement the revival of reform after 1994 and the fire scene that has evolved since then Pyne is uniquely qualified to tell America's fire story The author of more than a score of books he has told fire s history in the United States Australia Canada Europe and the Earth overall In his earlier life he spent fifteen seasons with the North Rim Longshots at Grand Canyon National Park In Between Two Fires Pyne recounts how after the Great Fires of 1910 a policy of fire suppression spread from America s founding corps of foresters into a national policy that manifested itself as a costly all out war on fire After fifty years of attempted fire suppression a revolution in thinking led to a more pluralistic strategy for fire s restoration The revolution succeeded in displacing suppression as a sole strategy but it has failed to fully integrate fire and land management and has fallen short of its goals Today the nation s backcountry and increasingly its exurban fringe are threatened by larger and more damaging burns fire agencies are scrambling for funds firefighters continue to die and the country seems unable to come to grips with the fundamentals behind a rising tide of megafires Pyne has once again constructed a history of record that will shape our next century of fire management Between Two Fires is a story of ideas institutions and fires It s America s story told through the nation s flames
