

DROPSHIP PILOT

"The regular drop pilots are always pissed at us for cruising into the no-noson bars with our slick g-suits on instead of the 'baggies' they wear. But we tell 'em damn straight that we're the 'attack pukes', riding shotgun to protect their miserable lily-white asses. We go in puckered tighter'n a clam. We don't crap ourselves at the first sign of triple-A, so we don't need no baggies to hold it in!"

Pictured (and quoted) is Warrant Officer Marcia 'Linus' Yancey of DCA-260, attached to the 3rd Marine Aerospace Wing at Yust. She is dressed in a g-suit instead of the normal dropship flight suit which would indicate she was flying gunship missions. Gunship pilots fly their ships unloaded, and make a virtue out of pulling hard, instantaneous turns while in hovering flight to avoid fire or acquire new targets, frequently pushing their ships to their structural limits in the process. Velcroed to her right shoulder is a unit flash, which would normally be ripped off prior to a 'hot' drop, in case of capture.

WO Yancey is strapped into a standard parachute rig, which hangs from her back. Across her chest are pouches for basic emergency equipment, including a survival pack, radio beacon and flashlight. It is standard procedure for pilots to wear a sideward, though it is evident from the picture that this one doesn't. Her helmet is a Mk. 28 'bonedome' with a boom mike attached. Though most pilots wear shades, more for effect than protection, a Polaroid visor can be slid out from the protective housing on top of the helmet to provide additional eye protection from high altitude and orbital glare, nuke and laser flash. This visor must be carefully looked after and kept free of dirt, grease or damage. A slight mark or scratch on its surface could obscure an enemy air threat at long visual range.
