Housing On The Rise!

By Marshall Thomas, President of F&W Forestry Services, Inc.

It looks like a trend is emerging in the housing market! Housing starts increased in November, continuing a slow but steady rise that began in September.

The better way to look at it is by examining the two price plateaus that occurred this year. In the early part of the year, January through April, F&W's Lumber-Use Adjusted Housing Starts ranged from 1.025 to 1.07 million, annualized. After taking a big jump in May, starts dropped back down, but not to the earlier levels. In the latter part of the year, adjusted starts ranged from 1.09 to 1.31 million.

The F&W-adjusted starts factor in the different lumber usage in single-family homes vs. multiple-family buildings, which is necessary for long-term comparisons. During the boom period of 1994 to 2006, adjusted starts were in excess of 1.2 million. We find ourselves back in that range, with November adjusted starts surpassing 1.31 million. Watch this number. If it stays above 1.2 million for several months, we could start to see demand impact timber stumpage prices.

Of course, interest rates need to continue to decline for that to happen, but the good news is that the Federal Reserve is signaling stable to dropping rates through 2024. And we probably need to tweak the adjusted starts amount to account for sawmill efficiencies that have occurred since the early 2000's, but nonetheless, this is a good indicator.

Investment managers like to tout timberland's lack of correlation to other markets, and recent years bear that out. While the real estate market has been depressed due to high interest rates and stock market volatility, timberland has been steadily increasing in price. See the article on page 6.

On the political front, the European Union passed a deforestation-free policy in June which may cause problems for U.S. wood exporters, manufacturers, and producers. The final regulations will be published later this year, but early signs indicate that exporters of wood and wood products to Europe may have to show the geographic locations and management history of all the sites from which wood was harvested to produce their product. The U.S. has almost nothing in place to do that. Our mills are large and tend to aggregate wood from many sources before processing, which will create issues with source tracking. And pulp and paper manufacturers rely central issues for environmental agencies forest managers and governments In this difficult task science has an important role in informing policy and management as to how to go about this So how do industrial and other plantation forests fit into this Plantation forests comprised of rows of planted trees that may be destined for pulp or sawmills after only a few years of growth appear to have little to contribute to the conservation of biodiversity Yet there is more to this than meets the eye of the casual observer and there are indeed numerous opportunities and often untapped potential for biodiversity conservation in plantation forestry With plantation forests expanding at a rate of approximately three million hectares per year it is crucial to understand how plantations can make a positive contribution to biodiversity conservation and how the potentially negative impacts of this land use can be minimised That is the topic of this book President's Report University of Minnesota, 1944 Bibliography of Agriculture ,1961 Bibliography of Agriculture with Subject Index ,1961
