Innovation Management and the Law Alexander Styhre,2024-08-13 In economic theory and in management studies innovation is widely regarded as the motor of economic activities and as being the primary source of renewal in the economic system This view emphasizes how innovation work is organized in specialized teams inside the firm or alternatively located to start ups and similar small ventures that are strongly incentivized to innovate to survive Rather than assuming that innovation work is a mere product of incentives provided by the market system propelled by the individual and collective skills of the innovation team participants and the resources that they mobilize in their work this volume examines how a market for innovation ideas is being constructed on the basis of policy making and legislative activities Innovation Management and the Law examines how the idea of value creation is understood to be a matter of innovation activities and how such innovation activities are premised on legal rights that create not only incentives corporations and markets but also more widely signal to market actors what kind of activities are consistent with policy makers economic and social welfare objectives The volume thus adds to the innovation management literature by introducing a comprehensive analysis of the patent system illustrating that the patent system is itself an institution and that it should be examined in such terms when studying how innovations are generated on the basis of team production activities and legal rights that are enforceable It will be of interest to researchers academics professionals and advanced students in the fields of management economic theory and law House of Commons - Business, Innovation and Skills Committee: Open Access - HC 99-I Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Business, Innovation and Skills Committee,2013-09-10 The Government's commitment to increasing access to published research findings and its desire to achieve full open access are welcomed in this report from the Business Innovation and Skills Committee However whilst Gold open access where authors publish their articles in an open access journal that provides free immediate open access to all of its articles on the publisher's website is a desirable ultimate goal focusing on it during the transition to a fully open access world is a mistake The Government and Research Council UK should reconsider their preference for Gold open access during the five year transition period and give due regard to the evidence of the vital role that Green open access and repositories have to play as the UK moves towards full open access Authors opting for Green open access publish in any subscription journal and then make their peer reviewed final draft freely accessible online by self archiving or depositing the article in a repository either institutional or disciplinary upon acceptance for publication Other recommendations include promotion of standardisation and compliance across subject and institutional repositories mitigation against the impact on universities of paying Article Processing Charges out of their own reserves introduce a reduced VAT rate for e journals non disclosure clauses should not be used in publishing contracts that include the use of public funds BIS must review its consultation processes to ensure that lessons are learned from the lack of involvement of businesses particularly SMEs in the formation of open access policy Managing Innovation Joe Tidd,John R.
