Mount Pleasant Early Days Reuben Hamilton, Vancouver City Archives, 1957 Museum and Art Notes Art, Historical and Scientific Association, Vancouver, B.C., 1926 Editor & Publisher, 1925 The fourth estate The Man who Saved Vancouver Daphne Sleight, 2008 Daphne Sleight paints a vivid portrait of controversial archivist Major James Skitt Matthews in her impeccably researched look at this colorful character whose dedication dogged persistence and guerrilla tactics were instrumental in preserving Vancouver's history Matthews noted for his fiery nature and stentorian voice as well as his zeal for collecting and preserving artifacts was the founder of the City of Vancouver Archives an institution he forced upon a reluctant city council and which he guarded ferociously until his death at age 92 In addition to collecting a massive number of historical objects and important early records Matthews conducted hundreds of extensive interviews with Vancouver pioneers from disparate backgrounds publishing them in his series Early Vancouver Narratives of Pioneers of Vancouver B C But before Matthews had even embarked on this vocation he took up the heritage cause after retiring he had lived an adventurous action packed life that to most people would seem like several lives This compelling biography covers his unique background and the unusual experiences that shaped the man and set the stage for a remarkable future Vancouver Constance Brissenden, 2006 Vancouver is Canada's gateway to the Pacific and it attracts millions of visitors each year See what draws them in with this insider's look at the city's most awe inspiring sights and fascinating history Written by an award winning author and journalist who specializes in the Pacific Northwest and lushly illustrated with Elan Penn's gorgeous photos it showcases both well preserved Victorian landmarks and modern views Visit the welcoming vistas and parks including the grand 1 000 acre Stanley Park the galleries and museums such as the Museum of Anthropology with more than 6 000 First Nation objects on display and dazzling architectural and natural wonders including the old growth forests that surround the city Every page reveals a new and spectacular treasure Making Vancouver Robert A.J. McDonald, 2011-11-01 Making Vancouver explores social relationships in Vancouver from 1863 to 1913 It considers how urbanization structured social boundaries among Burrard Inlet's increasingly large population and is premised on the belief that in studying social boundaries historians must abandon single category forms of analysis and build into their research strategies the capacity to explore complexity Robert McDonald thus traces the relationship between the two forms of identity class and status for the whole of Vancouver society The book starts with the years when settlement on Burrard Inlet centred around two lumber mills explores periods of elite dominance of city institutions and then of growing social and political conflict following the arrival of the railway examines the heightening of class tensions at the turn of the century charts economic growth during the boom years before the war and concludes with three chapters on the tripartite status hierarchy that emerged in concert with that of a class dichotomy It reveals a western city that was neither egalitarian nor closed to opportunity Vancouver up to the pre war crash of 1913 was open and dynamic The rapidity of growth easy access to resources narrow industrial base and influence of ethnicity and race softened the thrust towards class division inherent in capitalism Far more powerful in directing social relations was the quest for status creating a social structure that was no less hierarchical than that predicted by class theory but much more fluid The social boundary that separated the working class from others is revealed as a division that for much of the pre war boom period divided Vancouver society more fundamentally than the boundary separating labour from capital
