Inland Water Resources and Aquaculture Service, Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2003 This publication contains technical guidance on the effective and responsible operation of shrimp hatcheries in Latin America compiled through an extensive consultative process undertaken during 2001-03 including contributions from government designated national coordinators regional and international experts intergovernmental organisations and the private sector This process was carried out through the FAO Regional Technical Cooperation Programme project which involved the participation of 14 countries of the region Improving Penaeus Monodon Hatchery Practices, 2007-01-01 The successful farming of tiger shrimp Penaeus monodon in India is mainly due to the existence of some 300 hatcheries whose capacity to produce 12 000 million postlarvae PL annually has provided an assured supply of seed However the sustainability of the sector is still hampered by many problems foremost among these being a reliance on wild caught broodstock whose supply is limited both in quantity and in seasonal availability and that are often infected with pathogens The current low quality of hatchery produced PL due to infection with white spot syndrome virus WSSV and other pathogens entering the hatcheries via infected broodstock contaminated intake water or other sources due to poor hatchery management practices including inadequate biosecurity is a major obstacle to achieving sustainable shrimp aquaculture in India and the Asia Pacific region. Considering the major contribution of the tiger shrimp to global shrimp production and the economic losses resulting from disease outbreaks, it is essential that the shrimp farming sector invest in good management practices for the production of healthy and quality seed. This document reviews the current state of the Indian shrimp hatchery industry and provides detailed guidance and protocols for improving the productivity, health management, biosecurity and sustainability of the sector. Following a brief review of shrimp hatchery development in India, the major requirements for hatchery production are discussed under the headings: infrastructure, facility maintenance, inlet water quality and treatment, wastewater treatment, biosecurity, standard operating procedures (SOPs), the Hazard Analysis Critical Control Point (HACCP) approach, chemical use during the hatchery production process and health assessment. Pre-spawning procedures covered include the use of wild, domesticated and specific pathogen free (SPF) specific pathogen resistant (SPR) broodstock, broodstock landing centres and holding techniques, broodstock selection, transport, utilization, quarantine, health screening, maturation, nutrition and spawning, egg hatching, nauplius selection, egg nauplius disinfection and washing and holding, disease testing and transportation of nauplii. Post-spawning procedures covered include larval rearing unit preparation, larval rearing, health management, larval nutrition and feed management, important larval diseases, general assessment of larval condition, quality testing, selection of PL for stocking, PL harvest and transportation, nursery rearing, timing of PL stocking, use of multiple species in shrimp hatcheries and documentation and record keeping. Information on the use of chemicals in shrimp hatcheries and examples of various forms for hatchery record keeping are included as Annexes.

The purpose of this manual is to provide support for the various components of a national contingency plan. The information provided includes: 1) the nature of IMN, providing a brief review of disease etiology, susceptible species and global distribution; 2) diagnosis of infection, describing the gross clinical signs of disease, field diagnostic methods, differential and laboratory methods for diagnosis; 3) prevention and treatment, providing information on vaccination and resistance and immunity of the hosts; 4) epidemiology, providing information on IMN's geographic distribution, persistence in the environment, modes of transmission, vectors and reservoir hosts, factors
