Wellington, Wellington Michael Fowler, 1981 Maps on lining papers      Wellington, 1901      Wellington's History of the Peninsular War Stuart Reid, 2019-05-30 An historic account of the Peninsula War written by the man leading forces against the French Arthur Wellesley 1st Duke of Wellington Though pressed many times to write about his battles and campaigns the Duke of Wellington always replied that people should refer to his published dispatches Yet Wellington did in effect write a history of the Peninsular War in the form of four lengthy memoranda summarizing the conduct of the war in 1809 1810 and 1811 respectively These lengthy accounts demonstrate Wellington's unmatched appreciation of the nature of the war in Spain and Portugal and relate to the operations of the French and Spanish forces as well as the Anglo Portuguese army under his command Unlike personal diaries or journals written by individual soldiers with their inevitably limited knowledge Wellington was in an unparalleled position to provide a comprehensive overview of the war Equally the memoranda were written as the war unfolded not tainted with the knowledge of hindsight providing a unique contemporaneous commentary Brought together by renowned historian Stuart Reid with reports and key dispatches from the other years of the campaign the result is the story of the Peninsular War told through the writings of the man who knew and understood the conflict in Iberia better than any other These memoranda and dispatches have never been published before in a single connected narrative Therefore Wellington's History of the Peninsular War 1808 1814 offers a uniquely accessible perspective on the conflict in the own words of Britain's greatest general      History Making a Difference Lyndon Fraser, Marguerite Hill, Katie Pickles, 2017-05-11 Why care about the past Why teach research and write history In this volume leading and emerging scholars activists and those working in the public sector archives and museums bring their expertise to provide timely direction and informed debate about the importance of history Primarily concerned with Aotearoa the M ori name for New Zealand the essays within traverse local national and global knowledge to offer new approaches that consider the ability and potential for history to make a difference in the early twenty first century Authors adopt a wide range of methodological approaches including social cultural M ori oral race relations religious public political economic visual and material history The chapters engage with work in postcolonial and cultural studies The volume is divided into three sections that address the themes of challenging power and privilege the co production of historical knowledge and public and material histories Collectively the potential for dialogue across previous sub disciplinary and public private and professional divides is pursued

A History of New Zealand

Women Barbara Brookes,2016-02-15 What would a history of New Zealand look like that rejected Thomas Carlyle's definition of history as the biography of great men and focused instead on the experiences of women One that shifted the angle of vision and examined the stages of this country's development from the points of view of wives daughters mothers grandmothers sisters and aunts That considered their lives as distinct from though often unwillingly influenced by those of history's great men In her ground breaking History of New Zealand Women Barbara Brookes provides just such a history This is more than an account of women in New Zealand from those who arrived on the first waka to the Grammy and Man Booker Prize winning young women of the current decade It is a comprehensive history of New Zealand seen through a female lens Brookes argues that while European men erected the political scaffolding to create a small nation women created the infrastructure necessary for colonial society to succeed Concepts of home marriage and family brought by settler women and integral to the developing state transformed the lives of Mōri women The small scale of New Zealand society facilitated rapid change so that by the twenty first century women are no longer defined by family contexts In her long awaited book Barbara Brookes traces the factors that drove that change Her lively narrative draws on a wide variety of sources to map the importance in women's lives not just of legal and economic changes but of smaller joys such as the arrival of a piano from England or the freedom of riding a bicycle

Brian Sutton-Smith,2016-11-11 New Zealand children from 1840 to 1890 were subjected to an unusual combination of agrarian existence and an industrial social philosophy in the newly formed schools When schools became more universal in the expanding industrial society a new emphasis on the control of children developed and from 1920 onward adult supervision in the form of heavily organized sports and playgrounds encroached more and more on the untrammelled freedom of the rural environment Returning to his home country of New Zealand Brian Sutton Smith documents the relationship between children's play and the actual process of history Drawing on interviews with hundreds of informants from every province and school district of New Zealand the author illuminates for the first time the various social cultural historical and psychological context in which children's play occurs He treats both formal and informal play as well as the play of both boys and girls
