Place and Placelessness Revisited

Robert Freestone,Edgar Liu,2016-07-15 Since its publication in 1976 Ted Relph s Place and Placelessness has been an influential text in thinking about cities and city life across disciplines including human geography sociology architecture planning and urban design For four decades ideas put forward by this seminal work have continued to spark debates from the concept of placelessness itself through how it plays out in our societies to how city designers might respond to its challenge in practice Drawing on evidence from Australian British Japanese and North and South American urban settings

Place and Placelessness Revisited is a collection of cutting edge empirical research and theoretical discussions of contemporary applications and interpretations of place and placelessness It takes a multi disciplinary approach including contributions from across the breadth of disciplines in the built environment architecture environmental psychology geography landscape architecture planning sociology and urban design in critically re visiting placelessness in theory and its relevance for twenty first century contexts

Visual Pollution Adriana Portella,2016-02-11 In recent years there has been considerable interest in the problems that public spaces face because of the design of commercial signs The negative consequences that commercial signs can have on the visual quality of urban areas and further more on people s quality of life has been studied from both architectural planning and psychological perspectives While the issue of visual pollution as this phenomenon is commonly described has been widely debated there is as yet no clear conclusion as to how best to control commercial signage and whether different urban contexts and people from different backgrounds and cultures have universal or distinct preferences Several different commercial signage approaches are currently applied to different historic cities but these initiatives are not based on principles derived from the perception and evaluation of users Drawing on a range of comparative and contrasting empirical studies of historic city centres in the UK and Brazil this book examines questions of commercial signage control management the preservation of historic heritage and user preference and satisfaction The author takes an environment behaviour approach to this research involving theories concepts and methodologies related to environmental psychology architecture planning and urban design In doing so it argues that there are in fact visual preferences common to the majority of people independent of their urban context and that these common views can be useful to the development of a general theory of how to control commercial signage In conclusion the book suggests that the best way of controlling signage is not only to recommend general guidelines related to the operation of commercial signage but also to recommend design principles that can create commercial streetscapes evaluated positively by different users

Townshend, 2021-04-12 The built environment influences health and well being in a myriad of ways Some neighbourhoods are plagued by busy roads that are a constant source of danger noise and air pollution In some cities there is inadequate green space for children to play and socialise safely Yet this book argues it does not have to be this way With focus on human health well being and flourishing this book explores the ways in which people's lives are impacted by the built environment and how we can create adapt and design healthy and inclusive places. The volume explores the relationship between urban design and human flourishing and initiates broad discussions around relevant questions such as: What is a healthy place? What influences our perceptions of built environment more? Is it our age or our cultural background? The book includes six chapters from internationally renowned authors who attempt to unpack some of the key aspects that urban designers need to consider in order to create places that enable rather than constrain individuals and communities to live rich fulfilling lives. This book will be of great value to students, scholars and researchers interested in urban design, planning and in exploring how built environment impacts health and happiness. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Urban Design: Action, Property and Beauty. Stefano Cozzolino, Stefano Moroni, 2024-08-12. What are the challenges and potential of complex and emergent urban systems? This book answers this question by shedding new light on the topics of emergence, complexity and self-organisation and showing their interconnectedness with other concepts such as property and beauty which are usually considered separately. It contributes to the discussion by interpreting and explaining the nature of emergent urban phenomena and suggesting more appropriate design and planning measures. The book explores and untangles these crucial topics in a compact and accessible way by offering fresh interdisciplinary perspectives on the themes of action and interaction, self-organisation, property, neighbourhood, adaptability, urban beauty and suitable public planning and design interventions. It provides novel and crucial insights for students, researchers and academics in Urban Studies, Planning Theory, Planning Ethics, Planning Law, Legal, Political and Human Geography, Urban and Regional Economics, Urban Sociology and Urban Design. It is essential for anyone interested in exploring the emergent dynamics of complex urban contexts as well as for those involved in developing various projects and measures who aim to consider the spontaneous nature of cities seriously.
