The Problem of Rising Health Care Costs Council on Wage and Price Stability (U.S.),1976 Urgent Care Medicine Tanise I. Edwards,Thom A. Mayer,2002 This concise practical manual is geared specifically for physicians and other clinicians staffing urgent care centres Surprise! Zack Cooper,Fiona Scott Morton,Nathan Shekita,2017 Using insurance claims data we show that in 22% of emergency episodes patients attended in network hospitals but were treated by out of network physicians Out of network billing allows physicians to significantly increase their payment rates relative to what they would be paid for treating in network patients Because patients cannot avoid out of network physicians during an emergency physicians have an incentive to remain out of network and receive higher payment rates Hospitals incur costs when out of network billing occurs within their facilities We illustrate in a model and confirm empirically via analysis of two leading physician outsourcing firms that physicians offer transfers to hospitals to offset the costs of out of network billing and allow the practice to continue We find that a New York State law that introduced binding arbitration between physicians and insurers to settle surprise bills reduced out of network billing rates
