U.S. News Ultimate Guide to Medical Schools 3E Josh Fischman, 2006 Affect Theory and Comparative Education Discourse Irving Epstein, 2019-07-11 What does educational policy making and institutional practice entail in an era of globalization Global interactions challenge conventional assumptions governing the certainty of geographical boundedness simplistic notions of citizenship and identity fixed notions of time space and movement and clear distinctions between economic modes of production and consumption Irving Epstein argues that conventional educational institutions and the policies that support them tend to ignore such anxiety by affirming a belief in educational modernism to the exclusion of other possibilities What is missing in most of these analyses is an appreciation for the role of affect in determining how our encounters with these practices become significant and how our efforts to find meaning in those policies and practices lead to their acceptance or rejection This book is the first application of affect theory to comparative education themes and shows how it can help to form a more robust discussion of the policy making process and the popular reactions to it After discussing the key concepts associated with affect theory he presents a total of six case studies Three of the cases depict relationships between educational cultural and social organizations whose purposes conflict with one another but whose presence is indicative of a loss of faith in the efficacy of public schooling Three of the cases are illustrative of an even greater systematic rejection of educational institutional aim and purpose Indianapolis Monthly, 2001-04 Indianapolis Monthly is the Circle City's essential chronicle and guide an indispensable authority on what's new and what's news Through coverage of politics crime dining style business sports and arts and entertainment each issue offers compelling narrative stories and lively urbane coverage of Indy's cultural landscape The Social Construction of the US Academic Elite Stephanie Beyer, 2021-09-05 This book explores the stark stratification and struggles over classifications in US academia from a relational perspective looking beyond material differences and tracing its roots to symbolic power relations Based on a mixed methods study drawing on both interview and quantitative data it offers an account of the workings of academia shedding light on the structures that permit elite departments to define categories and impose legitimate scientific definitions to which the non elite must adhere With a focus on two scientific disciplines the author shows how the translation of objective structures into mental structures establishes a relationship of power with regard to the definition of scientific categories thus determining access to resources and opportunities to participate and move within the academic field A study of the unequal intrusion of economic logics into the academic domain this volume will appeal to scholars policy makers and institutional leaders with interests in higher education inequality within science academic careers power relationships and competition in the academy Complete Book of Colleges, 2011 Edition Princeton Review (Firm), 2010-08-03 Lists more than 1 600 colleges and universities and provides information about admissions and academic programs Our Cherished Halls of Ivy Phillip L. Beukema, 2022-10-10 Higher education has both supporters and detractors although not in equal numbers Some would have us believe that our higher education enterprise is on the brink of disaster that it's falling apart at the seams. Some go so far as to call the system broken beyond repair suggesting that it be rebuilt from the ground up. Can it be this bad? Drawing on his long experience in higher ed administration, the author examines the sea change that's affected nearly every corner of the higher learning landscape. These corners include the high and rising costs of tuition, the crushing levels of student debt, the shamefully low graduation rates in too many schools, the growing million-dollar clubs whose members include university presidents and football and basketball coaches, the inadequacies of accreditation, and the growing influence of partisan politics in the conduct of our public universities. That's for starters. With an insider's perspective, the author paints a picture that is up front and honest, laying bare the depth and extent of specific problems confronting that crucial engine of our economy, higher education. In each case, he spells out what needs a tune-up and what needs something closer to an overhaul. Of course, he offers specific proposals for fixing those problems. They're likely to be controversial, but the author hopes they spark a debate that ultimately leads to productive solutions.
