

How accurate is it to say that the position of women saw a considerable improvement in the years 1941-1980?

- Second world war- opened up more job opportunities for women, jobs that were originally reserved for men.- change in attitude
- Women's liberation movement- call for affirmative action, the equal rights act but women still discriminated against in some areas
- Suburban living- criticised for doing things such as working, created small communities that often set out strict rules. Many women conforming to original stereotypes- marrying young, no work, lots of kids

It is fairly accurate to say that the position of women saw a considerable improvement in the years 1941-80. This is because there was more legislation put into place to ensure more equality in the workplace. However, there were some setbacks, for example, the introduction of suburban communities led to many women turning against each other and conforming to pre-existing stereotypes.

Firstly, it can be argued that World War II brought an improvement into women's position in society. With men away at war, women were expected to pick up men's jobs. In fact, the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940 prepared to draft men into the military and to train women to fill their places, including in shipbuilding and aircraft assembly before the USA entered the war. Women could now do jobs that were originally reserved for men and worker shortages meant that black women could train for professions they were previously barred from. The number of women on nursing courses doubled from 1939 to 1945. Despite this, many employers still refused to employ black women. However, this improvement was only temporary as after the war was over, many women were not re-employed by the factories they worked for. Over half of the married women who were in work were forced to leave due to social pressure or as a result of the federally funded day-care centres, that were set up under the Lanham Act, closing in 1946. After this decrease in women working, female employment rate rose again. Women who had received training were often still accepted in those professions although white women were often employed before women of any other race. Women in the workforce during the war lead to a change in attitude to women working in general. In 1936, 82% of society believed that married women should not work. In 1938, this decreased to 72%, and in Unequalled in its combination of authoritative scholarship and comprehensive coverage, International Encyclopedia of Education Third Edition succeeds two highly successful previous editions (1985, 1994) in aiming to encapsulate research in this vibrant field for the twenty-first century reader. Under development for five years, this work encompasses over 1,000 articles across 24 individual areas of coverage and is expected to become the dominant resource in the field. Education is a multidisciplinary and international field drawing on a wide range of social sciences and humanities disciplines, and this new edition comprehensively matches this diversity. The diverse background and multidisciplinary subject coverage of the Editorial Board ensure a balanced and objective academic framework with 1,500 contributors representing over 100 countries capturing a complete portrait of this evolving field. A totally new work revamped with a wholly new editorial board structure and brand new list of meta-sections and articles. Developed by an international panel of editors and authors drawn from senior academia. Web-enhanced with supplementary multimedia audio and video files hotlinked to relevant references and sources for further study. Incorporates ca. 1,350 articles with timely coverage of such topics as technology and learning, demography and social change, globalization and adult learning, to name a few. Offers two content delivery options: print and online, the latter of which provides anytime, anywhere access for multiple users and superior search functionality via ScienceDirect as well as multimedia content including audio and video files.
