Experiencing Service-Learning Robert F. Kronick, Robert B. Cunningham, Michele Gourley, 2011-06-30 A unique resource for students and professors alike this book reveals the important practical educational and emotional benefits provided by college programs that allow students to help others through service work in inner city classrooms clinics and other challenging environments Filled with vivid first person reflections by students Experiencing Service Learning emphasizes learning by doing getting into the field sharing what one sees with colleagues and interpreting what one learns As the authors make clear service learning is not a spectator sport It takes students away from the routines and comfort zones of lecture test term paper exam and puts them into the world Service learning requires them to engage actively with cultures that may be unfamiliar to them and to be introspective about their successes and their mistakes At the same time it demands of their instructors something other than Power Point slides or an eloquently delivered lecture as no teacher can predict in advance the questions their students experiences will raise In service learning students and teacher must act together as a team of motivators problem solvers and change agents While most of its personal vignettes come from service learners who have worked as mentors in elementary schools the book also includes a chapter in which coauthor Michele Gourley describes at length her experiences at a faith based health clinic in Honduras In offering such stories along with a succinct introduction to basic concepts an assessment of how service learners can effect transformational change and project examples this text will not only prepare students for the adventures of service learning but also aid professors and administrators tasked with developing service learning courses and programs Robert F Kronick is a professor of educational psychology and counseling at the University of Tennessee Knoxville and the author of Full Service Community Schools Robert B Cunningham is a professor emeritus of political science at the University of Tennessee Knoxville His books include Agendas and Decisions How State Government Executives and Middle Managers Make and Administer Policy coauthored with Dorothy F Olshfski Michele Gourley is a physician and public health professional with a background in rural community health and state health policy
