Teaching My Mother How To Give Birth:

Teaching My Mother how to Give Birth Warsan Shire, 2011 Arts Council England Page facing title page Teaching My Mother how to Give Birth Audre Lorde, 2011 Black British Women's Writing in the 1970s and Beyond Camille S. Alexander, 2024-01-23 Black British writing in the decades after the Windrush generation was marked by a significant change more immigrant women were published in the UK in these decades than ever before This book is a collection of essays examining the texts of some of these women writers Included are essays on Black British women writers such as Warsan Shire Eimear Pearl Springer Beryl Gilroy Buchi Emecheta and Barbara Jenkins which span the literary period from the 1970s to the early 2000s The essays in this collection propose that these women writers represent the voices of another subgenre of Black British writing and they are connected through immigration or temporary migration to the UK Yet they also remain firmly attached to their geographical and cultural origins The essays included in this collection explore what it means to be a Black British woman writer and how members of this group were able to conceptualise home in their fiction The Promise of Welfare in the Postwar British and Anglophone Novel Kelly M. Rich, 2023 A study of the literature of the Second World War and its aftermath focusing on the welfare state and wartime visions of rebuilding Britain Talking College Anne H. Charity Hudley, Christine Mallinson, Mary Bucholtz, 2022 Talking College shows that language is fundamental to Black and African American culture and that linguistic justice is crucial to advancing racial justice both on college campuses and throughout society Writing from a linguistics informed Black centered educational framework the authors draw extensively on Black college students lived experiences to present key ideas about African American English and Black language practices The text presents a model of how Black students navigate the linguistic expectations of college Grounded in real world examples of Black undergraduates attending colleges and universities across the United States the model illustrates the linguistic and cultural balancing acts that arise as Black students work to develop their full linguistic selves Talking College provides Black students with the knowledge they need to make sense of anti Black linguistic racism and to make decisions about their linguistic experiences in college It also offers key insights to help college faculty and staff create the liberating and linguistically just educational community that Black students deserve Book Features Weaves together information and approaches drawn from the authors extensive experience working with Black and other students of color in higher education Provides an up to date discussion of Black language practices and their role in Black students college experiences Discusses the racial politics of language including anti Black linguistic racism and the struggle for linguistic justice as part of racial justice Offers a detailed model of Black college students diverse linguistic and racial identities Outlines concrete steps toward racial and linguistic justice that students and faculty can take today Accessible to students and faculty without a background in linguistics while also engaging and informative for linguistics scholars When Home Won't Let You Stay Eva Respini, Ruth Erickson, 2019-01-01 Insightful and interdisciplinary this book considers the movement of people around the world and how contemporary artists contribute to our understanding of it In this timely volume artists and thinkers join in conversation around the topic of global migration examining both its cultural impact and the culture of migration itself Individual voices shed light on the societal transformations related to migration and its representation in 21st century art offering diverse points of entry into this massive phenomenon and its many manifestations The featured artworks range from painting sculpture and photography to installation video and sound art and their makers including Isaac Julien Richard Mosse Reena Saini Kallat Yinka Shonibare MBE and Do Ho Suh among many others hail from around the world Texts by experts in political science Latin American studies and human rights as well as contemporary art expand upon the political economic and social contexts of migration and its representation The book also includes three conversations in which artists discuss the complexity of making work about migration Amid worldwide tensions surrounding refugee crises and border security this publication provides a nuanced interpretation of the current cultural moment Intertwining themes of memory home activism and more When Home Won't Let You Stay meditates on how art both shapes and is shaped by the public discourse on migration

The Cambridge History of Black and Asian British Writing Susheila Nasta, Mark U. Stein, 2020-01-16 The Cambridge History of Black and Asian British Writing provides a comprehensive historical overview of the diverse literary traditions impacting on this field's evolution from the eighteenth century to the present Drawing on the expertise of over forty international experts this book gathers innovative scholarship to look forward to new readings and perspectives while also focusing on undervalued writers texts and research areas Creating new pathways to engage with the naming of a field that has often been contested readings of literary texts are interwoven throughout with key political social and material contexts In making visible the diverse influences constituting past and contemporary British literary culture this Cambridge History makes a unique contribution to British Commonwealth postcolonial transnational diasporic and global literary studies serving both as one of the first major reference works to cover four centuries of black and Asian British literary history and as a compass for future scholarship

Hope and a Future John Balouziyeh, 2016-05-15 When the Syrian uprising began in March 2011 no one envisioned mass atrocities on the scale we are witnessing today No one foresaw the displacement of millions that would dramatically reshape regional demographics No one imagined that children would become the victims of chemical weapons or that the Mediterranean Sea would become their graveyard Today more than half of the Syrian population has been displaced a phenomenon almost without precedent in human history Images of starving civilians trapped in besieged cities have outraged the human conscience Thousands of children have been slain by barrel bombs landmines and chlorine gas More than a quarter million Syrians have perished These numbers are a shameful indictment on humanity Yet there is hope Each day in refugee camps across the Middle East aid workers seeking neither recognition nor reward sacrifice their comfort to bring Syrian refugees relief Entrepreneurs setting aside the pursuit of profits lend pro bono assistance to innovatively address refugee needs Volunteers risk their lives to give Syrian refugees hope and a future This book tracks the author's travels to Syrian refugee camps and informal tented settlements in Lebanon, Jordan, and Iraq. Relying on his legal background, he offers an unfiltered account of the plight of Syrian refugees from a legal, political, and humanitarian perspective. Yet this book is more than just an account of the lives of Syrian refugees; it answers that burning question on so many people's minds: How can I help? In discussing corporate partnerships with aid organizations, civil society initiatives, humanitarian missions, volunteering, and fundraising, the author shows that there is a role anyone can play in making a lasting positive impact on Syrian refugees and restoring dignity to their lives. Focus on Egypt Ernest Emenyonu, 2017. As well as a rare examination of Egyptian literature, this volume includes a non-themed section of Featured Articles and a Literary Supplement.

African Migration, Human Rights and Literature Fareda Banda, 2020-12-24. This innovative book looks at the topic of migration through the prism of law and literature. The author uses a rich mix of novels, short stories, literary realism, human rights, and comparative literature to explore the experiences of African migrants and asylum seekers. The book is divided into two parts. Part one is conceptual and focuses on art, activism, and the myriad ways in which people have sought to write justice. Using Mazrui's diasporas of slavery and colonialism, it then considers histories of migration across the centuries before honing in on the recent anti-migration policies of western states. Achiume is used to show how these histories of imposition and exploitation create a bond which bestows on Africans a status as co-sovereigns of the First World through citizenship. The many fictional examples of the schemes used to gain entry are set against the formal legal processes. Attention is paid to life post-arrival, which for asylum seekers may include periods in detention. The impact of the increased hostility of receiving states is examined in light of their human rights obligations. Consideration is paid to how Africans navigate their post-migration lives, which includes reconciling themselves to status fracture, taking on jobs for which they are over-qualified while simultaneously dealing with the resentment borne of status threat on the part of the citizenry. Part two moves from the general to consider the intersections of gender and status, focusing on women, LGBTI individuals, and children. Focusing on their human rights and the fictional literature, chapter four looks at women who have been trafficked as well as domestic workers and hotel maids, while chapter five is on LGBTI people whose legal and literary stories are only now being told. The final substantive chapter considers the experiences of children who may arrive as unaccompanied minors. Using a mixture of poetry and first-person accounts, the chapter examines the post-arrival lives of children, some of whom may be citizens but who are continually made to feel like outsiders. The conclusion follows, starting with two stories about walls by Hadero and Lanchester, which are used to illustrate the themes discussed in the book. Few African lawyers write about literature, and few books and articles in Western law and literature look at books by or about Africans, so a book that engages with both is long overdue. This book provides fascinating reading for academics, students of law, literature, gender, and migration studies, and indeed the general public.

Right Where We Belong Sarah Dryden-Peterson, 2022-04-05. A leading expert shows how, by learning from refugee teachers and students, we can create for displaced children, and indeed all children better schooling and brighter futures Half of the world's 26 million refugees are children Their formal education is disrupted and their lives are too often dominated by exclusion and uncertainty about what the future holds Even kids who have the opportunity to attend school face enormous challenges as they struggle to integrate into unfamiliar societies and educational environments In Right Where We Belong Sarah Dryden Peterson discovers that where governments and international agencies have been stymied refugee teachers and students themselves are leading From open air classrooms in Uganda to the hallways of high schools in Maine new visions for refugee education are emerging Dryden Peterson introduces us to people like Jacques a teacher who created a school for his fellow Congolese refugees in defiance of local laws and Hassan a Somali refugee navigating the social world of the American teenager Drawing on more than 600 interviews in twenty three countries Dryden Peterson shows how teachers and students are experimenting with flexible forms of learning Rather than adopt the unrealistic notion that all will soon return to normal these schools embrace unfamiliarity develop students adaptiveness and demonstrate how children teachers and community members can build supportive relationships across lines of difference It turns out that policymakers activists and educators have a lot to learn from displaced children and teachers Their stories point the way to better futures for refugee students and inspire us to reimagine education broadly so that children everywhere are better prepared to thrive in a diverse and unpredictable world Catastrophe Fintan Drury, 2025-05-28 The Nakba or Catastrophe occurred between 1947 and 1949 and saw 15 000 Palestinians massacred and more than 700 000 expelled from their homeland by Israel Today we're witnessing a second Nakba one being played out in front of our eyes In Catastrophe Fintan Drury offers an unflinching exploration of Israel's genocidal campaign Through extensive research he argues that the Hamas attack on 7 October 2023 was the inevitable result of almost eight decades of violent oppression of indigenous Palestinians In his view Israel's response was totally disproportionate and without the active sponsorship of the US and other major Western powers could not have happened Provocative eye opening and unapologetically direct Catastrophe Nakba II is a call to understand the unique suffering of the Palestinians Love and Space in Contemporary African Diasporic Women's Writing Jennifer Leetsch, 2021-07-16 This book sets out to investigate how contemporary African diasporic women writers respond to the imbalances pressures and crises of twenty first century globalization by querying the boundaries between two separate conceptual domains love and space The study breaks new ground by systematically bringing together critical love studies with research into the cultures of migration diaspora and refuge Examining a notable tendency among current black feminist writers poets and performers to insist on the affective dimension of world making the book ponders strategies of reconfiguring postcolonial discourses Indeed the analyses of literary works and intermedia performances by Chimamanda Adichie Zadie Smith Helen Oyeyemi Shailja Patel and Warsan Shire reveal an urge of moving beyond a familiar insistence on processes of alienation or rupture and towards a new reparative emphasis on connection and intimacy to imagine possible inhabitable worlds Theater of Anger Olivia

Landry,2021 Theatre of Anger examines contemporary transnational theatre in Berlin through the political scope of anger and its trajectory from Aristotle all the way to Audre Lorde and bell hooks The Penguin Book of the Prose Poem
