He was a man of cosmopolitan education who spoke nine languages but had a fierce loyalty to his country. He saw both Nazi Germany and Soviet Communism as equally dangerous to Hungary. After the Communist takeover of Hungary, he was arrested on trumped-up charges of subversion and served five years in prison. The freedom fighters of 1956 released him, but he did not leave his country even after the ruthless suppression of the 1956 Revolution. Hevesi Halász Laura, wife of Pál Horváth Lajos and Dalma's mother, was born in the southern part of pre-World War I Hungary, an area assigned to Romania by the Treaty of Trianon. After World War I, her widowed mother took the children to live in what was left of Hungary, and Laura lived through the privations and economic chaos caused by the dismemberment of the country. She was loyal to her husband but in love with another man, Dinó Veress László, a Hungarian diplomat. During World War II, Veress was charged by Hungary's Prime Minister to negotiate Hungary's surrender to the Allies. His portrait reveals the bittersweet complexities of this love triangle and its place in European history. Dalma's story shows how her life was shaped by these strong personalities and by the joys and cruelties of life in 20th-century Europe and America. Together with her parents, she made it through World War II and the siege of Budapest. For a month, their house was in no man's land between the Russian and the German front lines. But the most traumatic part of the experience was the Russian occupation for six weeks; their home was an army hospital, the soldiers were the masters, and the tenants were slaves obliged to obey their commands. Yet she also had the chance to learn much about the Soviet army because her father was the interpreter. In the years after 1945, hopes of a free country governed by free elections gradually faded. By 1947, the Communists were in control, arresting and imprisoning their opponents. Laura made the wrenching decision to leave Hungary with her daughter and join Veress László, whom she later married. Dalma's story takes her through the challenges of starting a new life in England in the aftermath of World War II: preparing for exams, helping out at home while her mother and stepfather tried to make a living, and dreading news from Hungary where the Communists were gradually stifling all forms of freedom. She was 15 when she arrived in England. Seven years later, she had a B.A. degree and was teaching English in an English grammar school. But her challenges continued. After her marriage to Takács
