Woman Earthly and Divine in the Comedy of Dante Marianne Shapiro, 2014-07-15 This study examines all the characterizations of the female personality in the Divine Comedy including representations of things traditionally categorized as feminine Marianne Shapiro treats different traditional feminine roles such as wife lover and mother and places Beatrice in the latter group The problem of woman is studied within the general context of medieval literature Shapiro's conclusions center largely upon Dante's adherence to a generally misogynistic tradition While in his earlier works his concept of woman was as a comprehensive whole encompassing good and evil in the Comedy polarities are established and affirmed Tellers, Tales, and Translation in Chaucer's Canterbury Tales Warren Ginsberg, 2015 Tellers Tales and Translation argues that

The Wounded Body Fabrizio Bondi, Massimo Stella, Andrea Torre, 2022-03-10 This edited collection explores the image of the wound as a cultural symptom and a literary visual trope at the core of representations of a new concept of selfhood in Early Modern Italian and English cultures as expressed in the two complementary poles of poetry and theatre The semantic field of the wounded body concerns both the image of the wound as a traumatic event which leaves a mark on someone's body and soul and prompts one to investigate its causes and potential solutions and the motif of the scar which draws attention to the fact that time has passed and urges those who look at it to engage in an introspective and analytical process By studying and describing the transmission of this metaphoric paradigm through the literary tradition the contributors show how the image of the bodily wound from Petrarch's representation of the Self to the overt crisis that affects the heroes and the poetic worlds created by Ariosto and Tasso Spenser and Shakespeare could respond to the emergence of Modernity as a new cultural feature
