This method works...

- Even if you're totally shy and not in the mood to talk to anybody
- Even if you're absolutely terrified of approaching women (Approaching isn't required, did you know that?)
- Even if you're drunk (well, it happens)

Speech and System Peter Bornedal, 1997 In this investigation creative writing and philosophy are shown to be specific types of language games distinct from speech as used in communicative interaction between individuals The author deals with thinking speech and systems respectively I Thinking is understood as a soliloquy preceding any kind of creative activity and any kind of writing The author analyses thinking as a subject's listening to its own voice with a split between I and me close to Derrida's notion of difference as a condition for the production of meaning II Analyzing with reference to Benveniste Austin and Searle what speech is the author deduces the so called pragmatic subject in contrast to the first section's reflective In its elementary speech act the pragmatic subject does constitute itself in rudimentary ways III In dealing with the product of reflective activity the author finds the so called textual inconsistency or logical aporias inherent in any logical or pseudo logical system to be in line with Goedel's incompleteness theorems and he rejects the tendency to use deconstruction to understand these aporias as is usual in Western metaphysics The author's philosophical position is closest to that of Paul Ricoeur and Jacques Derrida but on crucial issues he advances his own ideas on the relationship between speech and writing also establishing a criticism of metaphysics that may be more radical than what has previously been developed

The book is written for all those who want a general introduction to Baudrillard's work and will also appeal to those readers who are interested in social theory but who have not yet taken Baudrillard seriously.

When Does History Begin? Harjot Oberoi, 2022-01-01 Focusing on important issues in Sikh religious identity and memory, Harjot Oberoi shows how premodern techniques of narrating the past and truth-telling in South Asia were deeply transformed by colonialism. Indian historiographical praxis has long been problematic. Al-Biruni, the eleventh-century polymath, was puzzled by how people in the subcontinent treated the protocols of history; it escaped his learning that Indian narrative constructions of the past were embedded in an intricate canon of poetical traditions and represented a radical departure from historical narratives in the Islamic, Sinic and Greco-Roman worlds. Where others tended to search for facts, people in South Asia looked for affect. This alternative model for comprehending and evaluating the past through aesthetics and gradients of taste generated a crucially different variety of historical consciousness. Oberoi's examination of the Sikh tradition demonstrates what modern critical narrative achieves when it moves away from classical models, traversing significant moments in colonialism, coercion and protest in the Raj, the production of knowledge, the rise of secular nationalism and modern notions of the self within and outside India.
