

Pocket Guide for Immunizers: Influenza Immunization 2023 – 2024

The purpose of this pocket guide is to serve as a tool for health care providers to learn more about seasonal influenza vaccines in Canada and make strong recommendations to their patients.

Influenza is a contagious respiratory disease. Influenza in humans is caused by the influenza A and influenza B viruses. Seasonal influenza epidemics occur annually in Canada, mainly in the late fall and winter months. It is estimated that, in a given year, influenza causes 12,200 hospital stays and 3,500 deaths in Canada.

Influenza can cause mild to severe illness. While most people will recover within 7 to 10 days, some people are at greater risk for experiencing severe complications, including people with chronic illnesses, adults 65 and older, children 0 to 59 months of age, residents of nursing homes and other chronic care facilities, people who are pregnant, and Indigenous peoples. Complications can include pneumonia, cardiovascular complications, and the worsening of underlying chronic health conditions.

New strains of influenza virus circulate every year, which is one of the reasons annual immunization against influenza is recommended. As well, vaccination against influenza is an important component to help manage healthcare capacity during the influenza season in the fall and winter months, especially in the context of ongoing COVID-19 activity and community transmission of other respiratory viruses.
