

Reference 19: Knowing the Difference Between Prepositions and Adverbs

Adv

In the sample sentence, Sam ran around, the word around is an adverb because it does not have a noun after it.

P noun (OP)

In the sample sentence, Sam ran around the track, the word around is a preposition because it has the noun track (the object of the preposition) after it. To find the preposition and object of the preposition in the Question and Answer Flow, say:

around - P (Say: around - preposition)

around what? track - OP (Say: around what? track - object of the preposition)

Today, we will learn about prepositional phrases. A prepositional phrase starts with the preposition and ends with the object of the preposition. It includes any modifiers between the preposition and the object of the preposition. A prepositional phrase adds meaning to a sentence and can be located anywhere in the sentence. Prepositional phrases can modify like adjectives or adverbs. For example, the prepositional phrase (around the track) tells where Sam ran. A single word that modifies a verb is called an adverb. A prepositional phrase that modifies a verb is called an adverb phrase or adverbial phrase. Prepositional phrases can also modify like adjectives. (Students are not required to identify adjective and adverbial phrases in sentences until seventh grade. This is just extra information.)
