Truth Or Fiction English Edition:

Truth in Fiction John Woods, 2018-02-23 This monograph examines truth in fiction by applying the techniques of a naturalized logic of human cognitive practices The author structures his project around two focal questions What would it take to write a book about truth in literary discourse with reasonable promise of getting it right What would it take to write a book about truth in fiction as true to the facts of lived literary experience as objectivity allows It is argued that the most semantically distinctive feature of the sentences of fiction is that they are unambiguously true and false together It is true that Sherlock Holmes lived at 221B Baker Street and also concurrently false that he did A second distinctive feature of fiction is that the reader at large knows of this inconsistency and isn't in the least cognitively molested by it Why it is asked would this be so What would explain it Two answers are developed According to the no contradiction thesis the semantically tangled sentences of fiction are indeed logically inconsistent but not logically contradictory According to the no bother thesis if the inconsistencies of fiction were contradictory a properly contrived logic for the rational management of inconsistency would explain why readers at large are not thrown off cognitive stride by their embrace of those contradictions As developed here the account of fiction suggests the presence of an underlying three or four valued dialethic logic The author shows this to be a mistaken impression There are only two truth values in his logic of fiction The naturalized logic of Truth in Fiction jettisons some of the standard assumptions and analytical tools of contemporary philosophy chiefly because the neurotypical linguistic and cognitive behaviour of humanity at large is at variance with them Using the resources of a causal response epistemology in tandem with the naturalized logic the theory produced here is data driven empirically sensitive and open to a circumspect collaboration with the empirical sciences of language and cognition God Fact or Fiction Luke

VandenBerghe, 2014 The author develops the problem of God in a stimulating way by exploring science philosophy history and other disciplines He concludes that God does not exist because the supernatural does not exist and therefore God an entity of the supernatural also does not exist He regards religion as the biggest hoax ever released on mankind With his great erudition and critical reasoning he will incite the reader to serious thought The controversial topic will provoke a great deal of criticism and perhaps consequently contribute to clarification of the God's problem The main concern of the author remains the quest for truth from every possible angle The book is a modern testament New Zealand English Grammar

- Fact or Fiction? Marianne Hundt, 1998-07-15 New Zealand English NZE is one of the younger post colonial varieties of English It is therefore not surprising that previous research focused on lexical and phonological aspects of NZE and practically neglected grammatical peculiarities New Zealand English Grammar Fact or Fiction presents a careful comparative analysis of parallel corpora of New Zealand British American and Australian English in order to single out morphological syntactic and lexico grammatical features typical of an emerging New Zealand standard In addition to corpus data on regional variation the author uses data on short term diachronic change within British and American English to show how regional variation is closely related to both stylistic variation a world wide colloquialisation of the written norms of English and ongoing linguistic change leading to temporal regional differences NZE is different from other national varieties of English in terms of preferences for certain variants rather than categorically different grammatical rules Nevertheless it is a standard in its own right in so far as it is a typical mix of variants available in World English The methodological approach combines both qualitative analyses and statistical evidence The question in how far statistically significant differences in word frequencies can be shown to be linguistically significant is also relevant for other quantitative research into emerging national standards

The Seduction of Fiction Jean-François Vernay, 2016-10-04 By meshing psychology with literary analysis this book inspires us to view the reading of fictional works as an emotional and seductive affair between reader and writer Arguing that current teaching practices have contributed to the current decline in the study of literature Jean François Vernay's plea brings a refreshing perspective by seeking new directions and conceptual tools to highlight the value of literature Interdisciplinary in focus and relevant to timely discussions of the vitality between emotion and literary studies particularly within the contexts of psychology affect studies and cognitive studies this book will open up a space in which the formation of our emotions can be openly examined and discussed

Comparative Literature: Theory, Method, Application Steven Tötösy de Zepetnek, 2024-12-09 This book serves several purposes all very much needed in today's embattled situation of the humanities and the study of literature First in Chapter One the author proposes that the discipline of Comparative Literature is a most advantageous approach for the study of literature and culture as it is a priori a discipline of cross disciplinarity and of international dimensions After a Manifesto for a New Comparative Literature he proceeds to offer several related theoretical frameworks as a composite method for the study of literature and culture he designates and explicates as the systemic and empirical approach Following the introduction of the proposed New Comparative Literature the author applies his method to a wide variety of literary and cultural areas of inquiry such as Literature and Cultural Participation where he discusses several aspects of reading and readership Chapter Two Comparative Literature as and Interdisciplinarity Chapter Three where he deals with theory and application for film and literature and medicine and literature Cultures Peripherality and Comparative Literature Chapter Four where he proposes a theoretical designation he terms inbetween peripherality for the study of East Central European literatures and cultures as well as ethnic minority writing Women's Literature and Men Writing about Women Chapter Five where he analyses texts written by women and texts about women written by men in the theoretical context of Ethical Constructivism The Study of Translation and Comparative Literature Chapter Six where after a theoretical introduction he presents a new version of Anton Popovic's dictionary for literary translation as a taxonomy for the study of translation and The Study of Literature and the Electronic Age Chapter Seven where he discusses the impact of new technologies on the study of literature and culture The analyses in their various applications of the proposed New Comparative Literature involve modern and contemporary authors and their

Oxford Handbook of Assertion Sanford C. Goldberg, 2020-03-17 Assertions belong to the family of speech acts that make claims regarding how things are. They include statements, avowals, reports, expressed judgments, and testimonies, acts which are relevant across a host of issues not only in philosophy of language and linguistics but also in subdisciplines such as epistemology, metaphysics, philosophy of mind, ethics, and social and political philosophy. Over the past two decades, the amount of scholarship investigating the speech act of assertion has increased dramatically, and the scope of such research has also grown. The Oxford Handbook of Assertion explores various dimensions of the act of assertion: its nature, its place in a theory of speech acts, and in semantics and meta-semantics; its role in epistemology; and the various social, political, and ethical dimensions of the act. Essays from leading theorists situate assertion in relation to other types of speech acts, exploring the connection between assertions and other phenomena of interest not only to philosophers but also to linguists, psychologists, anthropologists, lawyers, computer scientists, and theorists from communication studies. Fact into Fiction Lars Ole Sauerberg, 1991-04-23 English and British Fiction, 1750-1820 Peter Garside, Karen Elisabeth O'Brien, 2015 This series presents a comprehensive global and up-to-date history of English language prose fiction and written by a international team of scholars. American Literary Gazette and Publishers' Circular, 1865 Where Fiction Ends Therese-Marie Meyer, 2006 Murakami Haruki Michael Seats, 2009-01-01 This book offers a new approach to dealing with Murakami's radical narrative project by demonstrating how his first and later trilogies utilize the structure of the simulacrum, a second-order representation to develop a complex critique of contemporary Japanese culture. New Contexts for Eighteenth-Century British Fiction Christopher D. Johnson, 2011-04-18 New Contexts for Eighteenth-Century British Fiction is a collection of thirteen essays honoring Professor Jerry C. Beasley, who retired from the University of Delaware in 2005. The essays, written by friends, collaborators, and former students, reflect the scholarly interests that defined Professor Beasley's career and point to new directions of critical inquiry. The initial essays, which discuss Tobias Smollett, Elizabeth Singer Rowe, and Samuel Richardson, suggest new directions in biographical writing, including the intriguing discourse of life writing explored by Paula Backscheider. Subsequent essays enrich understandings of eighteenth-century fiction by examining lesser-known works by Jane Barker, Eliza Haywood, and Charlotte Lennox. Many of the essays, especially those that focus on Smollett, use political pamphlets, material artifacts, and urban legends to place familiar novels in new contexts. The collection's final essay demonstrates the vital importance of bibliographic study. Revising Fiction, Fact, and Faith Nathaniel Goldberg, Chris Gavalier, 2020-07-01 This book addresses how our revisionary practices account for relations between texts and how they are read. It offers an overarching philosophy of revision concerning works of fiction, fact, and faith, revealing unexpected insights about the philosophy of language, the metaphysics of fact and fiction, and the history and philosophy of science and religion. Using the novels of J. R. R. Tolkien as exemplars, the authors introduce a fundamental distinction between the purely physical and the linguistic aspects of texts. They then demonstrate how two competing theories of reference descriptivism and referentialism are instead constitutive of a single semantic account needed to explain all kinds of revision. The authors also propose their own metaphysical foundations of fiction and fact. The next part of the book brings the authors' philosophy of revision into dialogue with Thomas Kuhn's famous analysis of factual and specifically scientific change. It also discusses a complex episode in the history of paleontology demonstrating how scientific and popular texts can diverge over time. Finally, the authors expand their philosophy of revision to religious texts, arguing that rather than being distinct, such texts are always read as other kinds that faith tends to be more important as evidence for religious texts than for others, and that the latter explains why religious communities tend to have remarkable historical longevity. Revising Fiction: Fact and Faith offers a unique and comprehensive account of the philosophy of revision. It will be of interest to a wide range of scholars and advanced students working in philosophy of language, metaphysics, philosophy of literature, literary theory, and criticism, and history and philosophy of science and religion.
