Roskam, 2012-12-06 This volume is the third volume of papers originating from the European Mathematical Psychology Group Earlier volumes were E Degreef J van Buggenhaut Eds Trends In Mathematical Psychology Amsterdam North Holland Publ Cy 1984 and E E Roskam R Suck Eds Progress in Mathematical Psychology Amsterdam Elsevier Science Publ As the title indicates this volume presents work in progress which was reported in one of the recent annual meetings of the European Mathematical Psychology Group The Group finds it worthwhile to disseminate this work using a review process which is somewhat less strict and a publication lag which is shorter than would be the case for standard international journals The editor is happy that the meetings of the European Mathematical Psychology Group are regularly attended by colleagues from overseas Their contributions also appear in this volume as was the case in earlier volumes Despite apparent heterogeneity the reader will observe that European mathematical psychologists have a keen interest in basic issues of mathematical modeling and measurement theory and that also substantive topics such as decision making perception and performance are studied in the context of formal modeling Also and perhaps of more than casual importance for future developments is the fact that theory experiment and data analysis go closely together It should therefore not surprise that psychometric topics and topics in scaling are represented in this volume alongside with topics of a more purely mathematical nature Resources in Education ,2001-04 Ain't Nobody Be Learnin' Nothin' Caleb Rossiter, 2015-04-01 America's most challenged families are segregated into high poverty schools Despite a 20 year experiment in nationwide school reform few students make it over the slippery bridge to the middle class In this book you will meet the students families teachers and administrators who struggle inside this failed system and consider proposals to give them a fighting chance Caleb Rossiter recounts his experiences as a math teacher of African American 9th and 10th graders in the poorest wards of the nation's capital He describes the obstacles facing teachers who are held accountable for the performance of students whose average skills are years below grade level Rossiter also a professor of statistics at American University explains how the No Child Left Behind law allows school districts to use so called data driven measures of teacher and even school effectiveness that ignore learning deficiencies and behavior patterns that began before a child's first day in school These measures violate basic norms of statistical analysis yet are used to make comparisons and draw policy level conclusions He exposes the pretense of success claimed by school reformers who pressure teachers to award unearned grades and if they won't paper over failure with imitation classes euphemistically termed credit recovery He then offers reasonable solutions that would enable children who attend school ready to learn to be freed from the disruption of poorly socialized peers who can be better served in alternative settings The Creative Enterprise of
