Knowing the Day, Knowing the World Lesley Green, David R. Green, 2013-12-05 Based on more than a decade of research in Palikur lands known as Arukwa in the state of Amap Brazil Knowing the Day Knowing the World reconsiders the dialogue between formal scholarship and Amerindian ways of knowing Beginning and ending with a public archaeology project in the region the book engages head on with Amerindian ways of thinking about space time and personhood Demonstrating that Palikur knowledges are based on movement and a careful theorization of what it means to be present in a place the book makes a sustained case for engaging with different ways of knowing It shows how this kind of research can generate rich dialogues about nature reality and the ethical production of knowledge The structure of the book reflects a gradual comprehension of Palikur ways of knowing during the course of field research The text enters into the ethnographic material from the perspective of familiar disciplines history geography astronomy geometry and philosophy and explores the junctures in which conventional disciplinary frameworks cannot adequately convey Palikur understandings Beginning with reflections on questions of personhood ethics and ethnicity the authors rethink assumptions about history and geography They learn and recount an alternative way of thinking about astronomy from the Palikur astronomical narratives and they show how topological concepts embedded in everyday Palikur speech extend to different ways of conceptualizing landscape In conclusion they reflect on the challenges of comprehending alternative cosmologies and consider the insights that come from allowing ethnographic material to pose questions of modernist frameworks

Reading Popol Wuj Nathan C. Henne, 2020-03-17 Popol Wuj is considered one of the oldest books in the Americas. Various elements of Popol Wuj have appeared in different written forms over the last two millennia, and several parts of Popol Wuj likely coalesced in hieroglyphic book form a few centuries before contact with Europeans. Popol Wuj offers a unique interpretation of the Maya world and ways of being from a Maya perspective. However, that perspective is often occluded since the extant Popol Wuj is likely a copy of a copy of a precontact Indigenous text that has been translated many times since the fifteenth century. Reading Popol Wuj offers readers a path to look beyond Western constructions of literature to engage with this text through the philosophical foundation of Maya thought and culture. This guide deconstructs various translations to ask readers to break out of the colonial mold in approaching this seminal Maya text. Popol Wuj or Popol Vuh in its modern form can be divided thematically into three parts: cosmogony, the formation of the world, tales of the beings who inhabited the Earth before the coming of people, and chronicles of different ethnic Maya groups in the Guatemala area. Examining thirteen translations of the K'iche' text, Henne offers a decolonial framework to read between what translations offer via specific practice exercises for reading, studying, and teaching. Each chapter provides a close reading and analysis of a different critical scene based on a comparison of several translations. English and Spanish of a key K'iche' word or phrase in order to uncover important philosophical elements of Maya worldviews that resist precise expression in Indo-European languages. Charts and passages are frontloaded in each chapter so the reader engages in the comparative process before reading any leading arguments. This approach challenges traditional Western reading practices and enables scholars and students to read Popol Wuj and other Indigenous texts from within the worldview that created them. Literature & Pedagogy Anthony Cordingley, 2025-04-01 Building upon the approach to reading literature pioneered by Bruce Gardiner at the University of Sydney for over four decades, Literature and Pedagogy is devoted to the way that texts, literary texts in particular, seek to instruct us. Bruce Gardiner has inspired generations of teachers and scholars in the field of literary criticism. He stands for a scholarly ethos which is at risk of disappearing. His distinctive academic career, which was entirely devoted to research-led teaching, invites us to think about the relationships between literary studies and pedagogy. It also invites us to ask what role a unique pedagogical style plays in the evolution of a discipline. How does intergenerational transmission between teacher and student play out both within and beyond disciplinary boundaries? This collection explores these questions while also documenting Gardiner's methods of scholarly as much as professional resistance to the neo-liberalisation and neo-conservatism of contemporary academic culture. Contributors draw from inspiring encounters with him to reflect upon the rhetoric and motifs of pedagogy within literary works. They put Gardiner's mode of reading into practice by offering new interpretations of pedagogical mechanisms employed within important literary works from the seventeenth century to the present and of cultural phenomena like colonial interpretations of the Australian lyrebird's song. The volume also offers pieces inspired by Gardiner such as poetry, art, translation and creative non-fiction as well as three unpublished lectures by Gardiner himself. Techniques and methodologies of literary education are traditionally believed to offer students the keys with which to unlock the secrets of texts and foster their appreciation. Literature and Pedagogy offers a new perspective showing teachers and students of both education and literature how literary works present their own methods for reflecting critically upon how and why we learn, read and teach.
