QUESTIONS

The Effect of War, Slavery, and National Identity
(1844-1877)

The mid-19th century in the United States was dominated by the burning question of the Civil War, a conflict that would determine the nation's very soul. From 1844 to 1877, Americans witnessed the country's greatest regional tensions, a brutal war, and the process of reconstruction.

The admission of Texas as a slave state in 1845, the Compromise of 1850, and the Kansas-Nebraska Act of 1854 all contributed to the growing divide between the North and the South. The Dred Scott decision of 1857 further fueled the tensions, leading to the outbreak of the Civil War in 1861.

The war, fought by the Northern Army, which was led by General Ulysses S. Grant, and the Confederate Army, which was led by General Robert E. Lee, resulted in the Union's victory in 1865. The war's aftermath saw the Reconstruction era, a period of significant social and political change. The 13th Amendment, which abolished slavery, and the 14th Amendment, which granted citizenship to all born or naturalized in the United States, were passed. The Reconstruction era also saw the rise of the Ku Klux Klan and the implementation of Jim Crow laws, which enforced racial segregation.
