Early American History review
Key Dates		Key People and Events
1776	Declaration of Independence signed on July 4, 1776 in Philadelphia for delegates to the Second Continental Congress.	Thomas Jefferson	Wrote the Declaration of Independence (signed August 2 nd 1776)
1787	U.S. Constitution written by delegates to the Constitutional Convention and approved to create the Articles of Confederation and decided to draft a new plan of government for the United States (The U.S. Constitution).	George Washington	Leader of the Continental Army during the Revolution, President of the Constitutional Convention and the first President of the U.S.
1791 - 1793	Amendment that brought over the issue of slavery, states rights, and democracy, and national differences between the North and the South.	James Madison	His famous "Federalist Papers" (written articles) argued British politics and ideas. Father of the Constitution
		Declaring Independence	Continued fight against King George III of England declaring the American colonies independent. Written in Philadelphia by Thomas Jefferson, July 4, 1776
Concepts of Democratic Government/Key Documents
Growth of representative government	The Virginia House of Burgesses was the first representative government assembly in the colonies (1775). The Mayflower Compact was a document outlining principles of self-government for settlers (1790). The 1787 Constitutional History of Connecticut is one of the first written constitutions in the colonies (1780).	Articles of Confederation 1776	A written plan of government for the colonies created a loose league consisting of 13 loosely independent states. Other constitutions followed including the 1787 U.S. Constitution which replaced the 1776 Articles of Confederation. The plan to form the United States government was passed by the states and the government (Congress) met in New York, and then moved to national court.
Mayflower Compact 1790	Signed in England, this document provided rules to the group of the King.	U.S. Constitution 1787 (signed 1788)	The "Preamble of the United States" established the Constitution as a binding agreement for the states. It is the first Constitution (signed) that set out the structure of government under the Constitution as a government based on the principles of which power is shared between the state government and the federal (national) government, and some powers shared between the state. The Constitution established a representative democracy with three branches of government: legislative, executive, and judicial.
English Bill of Rights 1789	Passed in 1789 in England, this document guaranteed English citizens certain rights and set a procedure for electing representatives to Parliament.	First of Rights 1789	The set of rights, known as the Bill of Rights, established (added) to the Constitution. These amendments (added) established rights such as free speech, freedom of the press, and jury trial. These amendments were added to the Constitution to make sure it reflected what the Colonists wanted and to protect individual rights.
Declaration of Independence 1776	Declared the American colonies separate from England, indicating important values. The new law created issues, and was endorsed by those (those) with certain individual rights (including the rights) and the pursuit of happiness. It stated that rights, governments are created among them, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. Therefore, any government that becomes destructive of these rights, the right of the people is held to be altered or to establish a new government.	Declaration of Rights	A series of amendments to support individual liberties of the Constitution. During the process, George Washington and Thomas Jefferson also supported the document. The new Constitution stated that the Constitution was the supreme law of the land, and individuals, having power over the states and individuals, their arguments against individual and to change of the Bill of Rights after the Constitution was approved.
