

Thematic Essay January 2014:

Theme: Geography-Territorial Acquisition

Task: Select two territories acquired by the United States and for each

- Describe the historical circumstances that led the United States to acquire the territory
- Discuss positive and/or negative effects of the acquisition of this territory on the United States

You may use any territory acquired by the United States since 1776. Some suggestions you might wish to consider include Ohio River valley (1783), Louisiana Territory (1803), Florida (1819), Texas (1845), Oregon Territory (1846), California (1848), Alaska (1867), Hawaii (1898), and Puerto Rico (1899).

Scoring Notes:

1. This thematic essay has a minimum of SIX components (discussing the historical circumstances that led the United States to acquire two territories and at least two effects each territorial acquisition had on the United States).
2. Similar effects on the United States may be used for different territorial acquisitions as long as the response includes distinct and separate information for each acquisition, e.g., California and Hawaii: both provided the United States with Pacific ports but California provided a way to open trade with Japan in the 1850s and Hawaii gave United States ships access to coaling stations during overseas expansion in the 1890s.
3. All the effects on the United States may be positive, all may be negative, or they may be a combination of positive and negative.
4. The discussion of the effects of the acquisition of the territory on the United States may be immediate or long-term.

As you read the essay below, please follow the task

- Place a big star by the thesis statement: Does it connect to the task above?
- Circle each topic sentence: Do they connect to the task above?
- Underline the ANALYSIS part of the paragraph: Explain why it is an analysis...

Essay was scored as a 4

Over the many years of the nation's history, the United States has acquired territories in many different locations. These new territories have not only allowed the United States to expand in area, but have also allowed for further economic development of the nation. The growth of the United States as a nation, however, has both good and bad effects. Two acquisitions that have led to such growth include the Louisiana Purchase and the acquisition of the California territory.

The territory of Louisiana was, for a long period of time, controlled by the French. Early French activity in the region created the French influence that we still see today in the same area. However, at the turn of the 19th century, France was finding it increasingly difficult to hold on to its possessions in the Americas having lost control of Haiti. At the time, France was struggling with its own economic problems and had no real need for Louisiana that was so far away. So Napoleon Bonaparte sold the territory to Thomas Jefferson for only a few million dollars, in 1803. This would turn out to be an immense bargain considering the size of the territory as a whole. Jefferson's initial goal had been to get control of the port of New Orleans because farmers wanted a reliable outlet for their produce.

After acquiring the new territory, the United States saw many positive effects from the addition of the new land. The purchase nearly doubled the size of the country, making more room for citizens to live in. As an additional effect, the United States government now had a much more
