University Rankings Jung Cheol Shin, Robert K. Toutkoushian, Ulrich Teichler, 2011-06-06 This ground breaking and exhaustive analysis of university ranking surveys scrutinizes their theoretical bases methodological issues societal impact and policy implications providing readers with a deep understanding of these controversial comparators The authors propose that university rankings are misused by policymakers and institutional leaders alike They assert that these interested parties overlook the highly problematic internal logic of ranking methodologies even as they obsess over the surveys assessment of their status The result is that institutions suffer from short termism realigning their resources to maximize their relative rankings While rankings are widely used in policy and academic discussions this is the first book to explore the theoretical and methodological issues of ranking itself It is a welcome contribution to an often highly charged debate Far from showing how to manipulate the system this collection of work by key researchers aims to enlighten interested parties U.S. News & World Report ,2009

The National Science Foundation's Materials Research Science and Engineering Centers Program National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Board on Physics and Astronomy, Solid State Sciences Committee, MRSEC Impact Assessment Committee, 2007-10-31 The Materials Research Science and Engineering Centers MRSEC Impact Assessment Committee was convened by the National Research Council in response to an informal request from the National Science Foundation Charged to examine the impact of the MRSEC program and to provide guidance for the future the committee included experts from across materials research as well as several from outside the field The committee developed a general methodology to examine the MRSEC centers and after extensive research and analysis came to the following conclusions MRSEC center awards continue to be in great demand The intense competition within the community for them indicates a strong perceived value Using more quantitative measures the committee examined the performance and impact of MRSEC activities over the past decade in the areas of research facilities education and outreach and industrial collaboration and technology transfer The MRSEC program has had important impacts of the same high standard of quality as those of other multi investigator or individual investigator programs Although the committee was largely unable to attribute observed impacts uniquely to the MRSEC program MRSECs generally mobilize efforts that would not have occurred otherwise Because of an observed decline in the effectiveness of the centers the committee recommended a restructuring the MRSEC program to allow more efficient use and leveraging of resources The new program should fully invest in centers of excellence as well as in stand alone teams of researchers to allow tighter focus on key strengths of the program In its report the committee outlines one potential vision for how this might be accomplished in a revenue neutral fashion A World View of Women ,1994 Research Analytics Francisco J. Consider No Evil Brandon G. Withrow,Menachem Wecker,2014-07-10 Even casual acquaintances of the Bible know that the Truth shall set you free but in the pursuit of that Truth in higher education particularly in Christian or Jewish seminaries there are often many casualties suffered along the way What happens when faculty and students at religious academies butt heads with senior staff or dare to question dogmas or sacred cows that the institution cherishes Consider No Evil examines seminaries affiliated with two faith traditions Christian and Jewish and explores the challenges as well as prospective solutions confronting those religious academies when they grapple with staying true to their traditions as they interpret them while providing an arena that incubates honest and serious scholarship

Higher Education in the Information Age Dennis Everette E.,Craig L. LaMay,2021-09-28 College and university education has long been a material and intellectual luxury in American life Fewer than 38 percent of Americans have ever attended college and only about half that number hold bachelor s degrees While post World War Two legislation greatly democratized higher education the editors of this volume contend that the system has never been a public stewardship Many universities are devoted to private sector research rather than public learning to productivity rather than democratic discourse and because of diminished financial opportunities increasingly exclude poor working and lower middle class students many of them people of color The contributors to this volume recognize that the American system of higher education is the most open and egalitarian in the world Largely for this reason it is the only American institution which today enjoys a positive balance of trade Many more foreign students come to study at American universities than do Americans go to study abroad The study of higher education in an information age means examining higher education The place of economics in decision making is as a vehicle for social mobility The volume covers a myriad of themes the role of media ranking universities and their contribution to low expectations of universities the disjunction between massive support for college and university sports events and the intellectual and presumed academic missions of these institutions of higher learning and boosterism as a general phenomenon in funding Yet editors and contributors alike emphasize new currents in the educational agenda The essays cover efforts to close the gap between the mutual recriminations of universities and media leaders The theme of this volume is that there is a crisis in higher education and a crisis in knowledge who produces it controls it uses it and benefits by it Properly understood the issues common to both higher education and the media have profound implications for public life This volume is critical of current practices but also mindful that the university remains a place in which civil forms of discourse are central and hence of great potential benefit to the dissemination of information and ideas as such It will be of interest to professional interested in communication and education

The College Completion Glass—Half-Full or Half-Empty? Tiffany Beth Mfume, 2018-12-21 Despite the Great Recession and looming student loan debt crisis college education remains the most proven invaluable lifetime investment and serves as the most reliable path to upward mobility and socioeconomic class reassignment Mfume suggests that the value added of even one year of college can be transformative As higher education professionals and partners continue to advocate for new and improved college retention and graduation measures The College Completion Glass Half Full or Half Empty Exploring the Value of Postsecondary Education presents a new paradigm for higher education one that focuses on the value added of postsecondary education as well as on student success beyond the traditional measure of college graduation rates a model which merges conventional practices and supports for students with non traditional partnerships with and advocacy from successful non completers

North American Social Report Alex C. Michalos, 2012-12-06 For readers who intend to read this volume without reading the first some introductory remarks are in order about the scope of the work and the strategy used in all five volumes to measure the quality of life In the first chapter of Volume I I reviewed the relevant recent literature on social indicators and social reporting and explained all the general difficulties involved in such work It would be redundant to repeat that discussion here but there are some fundamental points that are worth mentioning Readers who find this account too brief should consult the longer discussion The basic question that will be answered in this work is this Is there a difference in the quality of life in Canada and the United States of America and if so in which country is it better Alternatively one could put the question thus If one individual were randomly selected out of Canada and another out of the United States would there be important qualitative differences and if so which one would probably be better one To simplify matters I often use the terms Canadian and American as abbreviations for a randomly selected resident of Canada or the United States respectively
