Animal nutrition strategies and options to reduce the use of antimicrobials in animal production Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2021-07-15 Antimicrobial resistance is a global and increasing threat Stewardship campaigns have been established and policies implemented to safeguard the appropriate use of antimicrobials in humans animals and plants Restrictions on their use in animal production are on the agenda worldwide Producers are investing in measures involving biosecurity genetics health care farm management animal welfare and nutrition to prevent diseases and minimize the use of antimicrobials Functional animal nutrition to promote animal health is one of the tools available to decrease the need for antimicrobials in animal production Nutrition affects the critical functions required for host defence and disease resistance Animal nutrition strategies should therefore aim to support these host defence systems and reduce the risk of the presence in feed and water of potentially harmful substances such as mycotoxins anti nutritional factors and pathogenic bacteria and other microbes General dietary measures to promote gastrointestinal tract health include the selective use of a combination of feed additives and feed ingredients to stabilize the intestinal microbiota and support mucosal barrier function This knowledge used to establish best practices in animal nutrition could allow the adoption of strategies to reduce the need for antimicrobials and contain antimicrobial resistance OCD-HS Head Start Policy Manual, 1975 Catalog of Copyright Entries. Shanawany, John Dingle, 1999 Good Practices in Planning and Management of Integrated Commercial Poultry Production in South Asia R. Prabakaran, 2003-01-01 This publication reviews all aspects of poultry production in South Asia including layer production for eggs and broilers for meat Information is given on feeding and nutrition housing and general husbandry as well as on flock health Regional specificity always exists but this type of production also shows the many similarities in other parts of the world with regard to potential and constraints *Catalog. Kleiman, Katerina V. Thompson, Charlotte Kirk Baer, 2010-08-15 Zoos aquaria and wildlife parks are vital centers of animal conservation and management For nearly fifteen years these institutions have relied on Wild Mammals in Captivity as the essential reference for their work Now the book reemerges in a completely updated second edition Wild Mammals in Captivity presents the most current thinking and practice in the care and management of wild mammals in zoos and other institutions In one comprehensive volume the editors have gathered the most current information from studies of animal behavior advances in captive breeding research in physiology genetics and nutrition and new thinking in animal management and welfare In this edition more than three quarters of the text is new and information from more than seventy five contributors is thoroughly updated The standard text for all courses in zoo biology Wild Mammals in Captivity will in its new incarnation continue to be used by zoo managers animal caretakers researchers and anyone with an interest in how to manage animals in captive conditions Food and Nutrition Information and Educational Materials Center Catalog Food and Nutrition Information Center (U.S.),1976 Livestock Keeping in Urban Areas Hans Schiere,Rein van der Hoek,2001-01-01 Livestock play an important but variable role in both rural and urban societies At the request and with the support of the Japanese Government FAO has compiled experiences of livestock keeping from different parts of the world categorized by production systems to make it easier for interested people to select ideas for their own conditions This document presents a sample of such technologies intended for livestock keeping in urban and peri urban areas It describes the livestock production system in traditional sectors and identifies constraints Suggestions for improving production in the livestock sector are given and a literature list is included for further reference Developing National Emergency Prevention Systems for Transboundary Animal Diseases Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,1997-01-01 Catalog Food and Nutrition Information Center (U.S.),1974 Pastoralism in the New Millenium Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2001-01-01 Pastoralism refers to the type of farming system which uses extensive grazing on grasslands for livestock production This type of farming covers 25 per cent of the world s land area and supports 20 million households It makes substantial contributions to the economies of developing countries although agricultural encroachment conflict and drought continue to erode this way of life This publication considers key policy issues and trends involved in attempts to improve the livelihoods of pastoralist families and communities Quality Control Testing of Contagious Bovine Pleuropneumonia Live Attenuated Vaccine Joseph Litamoi,Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,1996 About CBPP vaccines Goose Production Roger B. Buckland,Gérard Guy,2002-01-01 This publication aims to provide guidance on sustainable goose production systems that are based on the natural physiological and behavioural advantages of the goose These advantages include the fact that they can consume and digest large amounts of high fibre and low quality feed they are easy to manage and their rapid growth renders them one of the most efficient sources for meat production In addition feathers down and fatty liver are valuable by products while their strong territorial instinct makes them very effective guards As selective feeders geese have been used for weed control in a wide range of crops All aspects of goose production are discussed in this book including feeding and nutrition housing general husbandry flock health and breeding Regional differences in production practices are also described Village Chicken Production Systems in Rural Africa Aichi J. Kitalyi,Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,1998-01-01 The poultry production systems of Africa are mainly based on the scavenging indigenous chickens found in virtually all villages and households in rural Africa These systems are characterized by low output per bird Nevertheless over 70 percent of the poultry products and 20 percent of animal protein intake in most African countries come from this sector Therefore increased rural poultry production would result in a positive impact on household food security both in increased dietary intake and in income generation This study coincided with the World Food Summit held at FAO Rome from 13 to 17 November 1996 where delegations committed their governments and civil society to a global attack on food insecurity and poverty Poultry like other short cycle animal stock is viewed by the FAO Special Programme for Food Security SPFS as a crucial element in the struggle for sustained food production and poverty alleviation The guidelines provided in this study are particularly pertinent to those countries participating in the SPFS where village chicken production will have a substantial impact on increased household food security and gender equity Foreword

The Technology of Making Cheese from Camel Milk (Camelus Dromedarius) J.-P. Ramet, Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2001-01-01 Research has shown that the camel is the most efficient domestic animal for converting vegetative matter into work milk and meat Camel milk is already used for human consumption in its fresh or fermented forms or as butter but only rarely as cheese Camel milk is more technically difficult to process than milk from other domestic animals and some researchers have even claimed that camel milk cheese would be impossible to produce However if normal cheese making procedures are adapted to camel milk's particular characteristics satisfactory cheeses can be made The technology of making cheese from camel milk describes the composition of camel milk compares it with other milks and explains how it can be used to make cheese
