Four Decades and Five Manuals J. Keith Purvis, School of Advanced Military Studies, 2012-09-29 This monograph analyzes the history of United States Army leadership doctrine from 1983 through 2011 to identify the evolution of strategic leadership theory and practice in Army doctrine Using leadership doctrine the focus is on the analysis of the articles reports opinions studies and research papers surrounding each doctrinal publication This research uses an analytical approach across the timeline of leadership doctrine by understanding each approved doctrine reviewing the intellectual debate within the Army institution and across other leadership disciplines examining the doctrinal changes in the published documents and exploring the future of proposed strategic leadership doctrine Beginning with the renewed emphasis on tactical direct leadership attributes published in 1983 the omission of operational and strategic leadership in the doctrine identified a gap in addressing leadership at all levels within the Army Following executive level leadership discourse in the 1980s the publication of FM 22 103 Leadership and Command at Senior Levels in 1987 established the first doctrinal framework for command and leadership above the direct tactical level for the Army Coupled with the 1993 AR 600 100 Army Leadership Army leadership policies became a better codified part of training and leader development specifically in recognition of different levels of leadership including direct senior and executive. The consolidation and reorganization of Army leadership doctrine in 1999 placed the three levels of leadership together in one doctrinal reference; however, differences still existed between definitions of the levels. FM 22-100, Army Leadership: Be Known, Do Used, provided direct, organizational, and strategic while the 1993 regulation used direct, senior, and strategic. By 2007, the newly published documents finally agreed, providing clarity of purpose and better understanding for all Army leaders as they progressed through the different leadership levels. Strategic leadership thought and its importance to Army leaders continued to evolve and remained a much discussed, researched, and published topic into the twenty-first century. National military and government leaders addressed the need to improve strategic leaders' ability to understand and prepare for future conflicts while presenting the ways strategic leadership fits into overall leadership doctrine. The planned forthcoming updates to the 2006 Army Leadership Competent, Confident, and Agile manual continue those linkages for strategic leaders. The monograph concludes that strategic leaders must understand the strategy of the organization where the organization fits in the complex environment and what the organization must do to be successful. Through inclusion of strategic leadership references in consolidated Army doctrine, the academic theories and methods surrounding strategic leadership became more widely spread across the force, further improving the understanding necessary for a successful organization. The leadership traditions of the United States Army, better known for the direct leadership examples executed in every conflict, continue to have a codified description of the strategic leadership attributes necessary for continued success accessible to all leaders from the newest to the most senior.

21st Century U.S. Military Manuals Department of Defense, U. S. Military, U. S. Army, 2018-03-20. This Army Field Manual is a capstone manual which describes the Army's view of leadership, outlines the levels of leadership: direct, organizational, and strategic, and describes the attributes and core leader competencies across all levels. The principal audience for ADRP 6-22 is all leaders: military and civilian. Trainers and educators throughout the Army will also use this publication. Commanders, staffs, and subordinates ensure their decisions and actions comply with applicable United States, international, and in some cases, host nation laws and regulations. Commanders at all levels ensure their Soldiers operate in accordance with the law of war and the rules of engagement. It establishes and describes the leader attributes and core leader competencies that facilitate focused feedback, education, training, and development across all leadership levels. An ideal Army leader has strong intellect, physical presence, professional competence, moral character, and serves as a role model. An Army leader is able and willing to act decisively within the intent and purpose of superior leaders and in the best interest of the organization. Army leaders recognize that organizations built on mutual trust and confidence successfully accomplish missions. Everyone in the Army is part of a team and functions in the role of leader and subordinate. Being a good subordinate is part of being a good leader. All Soldiers and Army Civilians must serve as leaders and followers. It is important to understand that leaders do not just lead subordinates; they also lead other leaders.

Leaders are not always designated by position rank or authority ADRP 6 22 addresses the following topics necessary to become a competent multiskilled and agile Army leader Understand the Army definitions of leader and leadership Use the Army leadership requirements model as a common basis for thinking and learning about leadership and associated doctrine Become knowledgeable about the roles and relationships of leaders including the role of subordinate or team member Discover what makes a good leader a person of character with presence and intellect Learn how to lead develop and achieve through competency based leadership Identify the influences and stresses in our changing environment that affect leadership Understand the basics of leading at the direct organizational and strategic levels Part One defines leadership describes the foundations of Army leadership and introduces the Army Leadership Requirements Model in Chapter 1 Part Two describes the leader attributes of character presence and intellect Part Three describes the core leader competencies and their application Part Four addresses the roles and responsibilities of organizational leaders in Chapter 10 and strategic leaders in Chapter 11
