Reconfiguring Racial Capitalism Mingwei Huang, 2024-10-18 In Reconfiguring Racial Capitalism Mingwei Huang traces the development of new forms of racial capitalism in the twenty first century Through fieldwork in one of the China malls that has emerged along Johannesburg s former mining belt Huang identifies everyday relations of power and difference between Chinese entrepreneurs and African migrant workers in these wholesale shops. These relations, Huang contends, replicate and perpetuate global structures of white supremacy, anti-Blackness, capitalism, and colonialism, even when whiteness is not present. Huang argues that this dynamic reflects the sedimented legacies and continued operation of white supremacy and colonialism, which have been transformed in the shift of capitalism's center of gravity toward China and the Global South. These new forms of racial capitalism and empire layer onto and extend histories of exploitation and racialization in South Africa. Taking a palimpsestic approach, Huang offers tools for understanding this shift and decentering contemporary Western conceptions of race, empire, and racial capitalism in the Chinese Century.

Transformation of the University Søren S.E. Bengtson, Ryan Evelyn Gildersleeve, 2022-04-25. Transformation of the University imagines preferable futures for the university, building hope for the institution's necessary transformation. It transcends old criticisms and presents fresh ideas on how the institution might be conceived, organized, and put into practice while safeguarding that which makes it a university: the pursuit of knowledge. This book is divided into three main parts. Part One, Knowledge, assumes the role of the university in generating knowledge for the benefit of society. Part Two, Cultural Growth, expands on how the university might contribute to and benefit from the cultural growth of society, with both explicit and implicit connections to social and epistemic justice. Part Three, Institutions, focuses on imaginative processes for enacting the university as an institution that meets the unforeseen future challenges facing societies around the world. With contributions from scholars across the world, Transformation of the University is an essential read for all academics, practitioners, institutional leaders, and broad social thinkers who are concerned with the future of the university and its contributions to society.

Language Policy and Planning in Universities Anthony J. Liddicoat, 2018-10-18. In a world where higher education is increasingly internationalized, questions of language use and multilingualism are central to the ways in which universities function in teaching, research, and administration. Contemporary universities find themselves in complex linguistic environments that may include national-level language policies, local linguistic diversity, an internationalized student body, increasing international collaboration in research, and increased demand for the use and learning of international languages, especially English. The book presents a critical analysis of how universities are responding to these complexities in different contexts around the world. The contributions show that language issues in universities are complex and often contested, as universities try to negotiate the national and the international in their work. In some contexts, universities' language policies and the ways in which they are implemented may have a negative impact on their ways of working. In other contexts, however, universities have embraced multilingualism in ways that have opened up new academic possibilities for staff and students. Collectively, the chapters show that universities' language policy and planning are a work in progress, and that much further work is needed for universities to achieve their language goals. This book was originally published as a special issue of Current Issues in Language Planning.

In this scholarly book a century's theology presented by the Faculty of Theology at the University of Pretoria is celebrated. All authors are academics or research associates of the University of Pretoria. A historical and futuristic overview with perspectives from the past, present and future are examined. The past is not only portrayed by means of societal and scientific contributions and achievements but the authors also reflect on malfunctions, ill behaviour and disappointments of church and theology presented at the University of Pretoria within the South African context over 100 years. The book commences with a chapter in which institutional transformation is discussed as well as the changes that demonstrate the role of the Faculty of Theology within a secular state university. It includes an explanation of the importance of research impact, research productivity and research reputation. Among various discipline indicators, the category Theology and Religion Studies plays a significant role in the measurement of world university rankings of universities. With regard to scientific and encyclopaedic content, the book focuses on the theological disciplines presented in the academic curricula: first the biblical sciences (Old and New Testament Studies), then the historical disciplines (Systematic Theology, Church History and Church Polity) and finally the practical disciplines (Practical Theology, Science of Religion and Missiology). The role of Religion Studies in a newly established Faculty of Theology and Religion not only enhances the diversity of interreligious tolerance and an atmosphere of dialogue but it serves as a platform to interconnect with the fields of Humanities, Social and Natural Sciences and other academic disciplines. In the conclusive part of the book, contributions highlight the role of the centres in the Faculty: Centre for Contextual Ministry and Centre for Sustainable Communities, as well as the continental and international footprints of the two theological journals whose title ownership is attached to the Faculty of Theology of the University of Pretoria, namely HTS Theological Studies and Verbum et Ecclesia. The methodology comprised in all the chapters amounts to a literature and contextual study. Since the book describes the histories of formal academic departments, these texts are of a descriptive, interpretative and critical character. Reference is made in some chapters to exegetical methods like the historical critical methods. The target audience of the book is academic scholars and theologians who specialise in the different fields of Theology, the Humanities and other Social Sciences. The book is also accessible to scholars of other academic disciplines outside these disciplines. The book comprises original research by several authors and is not plagiarised from other scientific publications of this nature.
