Smith,2002 All Men and Both Sexes explores the use of such universal terms as people man or human in early modern England from the civil war through the Enlightenment Such language falsely implies inclusion of both men and women when actually it excludes women Recent scholarship has focused on the Rights of Man doctrine from the Enlightenment and the French Revolution as explanation for women s exclusion from citizenship According to Hilda Smith we need to go back further to the English Revolution and the more grounded but equally restricted values tied to the free born Englishman Citing educational treatises advice literature to young people guild records popular periodicals and parliamentary debates she demonstrates how the male maturation process came to define the qualities attached to citizenship and responsible adulthood which in turn became the basis for modern individualism and liberalism By the eighteenth century a new discourse of sensibility was describing women as dependent beings outside the state in a separate sphere and in need of protection This excluded women from reform debates forcing them to seek not an extension of a democratic franchise but a specific women s suffrage focused on gender difference

The Artisan and the European Town, 1500-1900 Geoffrey Crossick,2016-12-05 Artisans played a central role in the European town as it developed from the Middle Ages onwards Their workshops were at the heart of productive activity their guilds were often central to the political and legal order of towns and their culture helped shape civic ritual and the urban order These essays which have all been specially written for this collection explore the relationships between artisans and their towns across Europe between the beginning of the early modern period and the end of the 19th century They pay special attention to the processes of economic juridical and political change that have made the 18th and early 19th centuries a period of such significance Written by leading historians of European artisans the essays question the myths about artisans that have long pervaded research in the field The leading myth was that shared by the artisans themselves the myth of decline and the belief in each generation that artisans in the past had inhabited a better age These essays open up for debate the nature of artisanship the way economic change affected craft production the political role of artisans the cultural identification of the artisans with work and masculinity and the way changing urban society and changing urban structure posed threats to which the artisans had to respond
