about the American Old West Her works featuring cowboys and cows of the Flying U Ranch in Montana reflected an interest in ranch life the use of working cowboys as main characters even in romantic plots the occasional appearance of eastern types for the sake of contrast a sense of western geography as simultaneously harsh and grand and a good deal of factual attention to such matters as cattle branding and bronc busting She was married three times to Clayton Bower in 1890 to Bertrand William Sinclair also a Western author in 1905 and to Robert Elsworth Cowan in 1921 However she chose to publish under the name Bower Biography Early life Born Bertha Muzzy in Otter Tail County Minnesota to Washington Muzzy and Eunice Miner Muzzy Bower moved with her family to a dryland homestead near Great Falls Montana in 1889 That fall just before her eighteenth birthday she began teaching school in nearby Milligan Valley The school was a small hastily converted log outbuilding and she taught twelve pupils Her experiences as a teacher informed the characters of schoolmaams who appear frequently in her in the writings notably in The North Wind Do Blow 1937 in which a young eastern born schoolmaam teaches her first term in central Montana After one term as a schoolteacher Bower returned to her family's homestead

The Lure of the Dim Trails B. M. Bower, 2019-11-25 In The Lure of the Dim Trails B M Bower intricately weaves a narrative set against the rugged backdrop of the American West employing a vivid and descriptive literary style that immerses readers in the landscape and atmospheric tension of the era Bower's tale intertwines the themes of adventure nature and the human spirit exploring the allure of the untamed wilderness as characters navigate personal challenges and societal expectations Through the use of rich imagery and dynamic dialogue the text reflects both the romanticism and harsh realities of frontier life aligning with the period's narrative tradition that celebrated exploration and resilience B M Bower born in the late 19th century was a pioneering voice in Western fiction drawing from her own experiences living in the wilds of Montana Her deep connection to the land and the people who inhabited it informed her storytelling allowing her to create authentic characters that resonate with both hope and hardship Bower's work serves as a bridge between traditional Western genres and early feminist influences as she often focused on strong female protagonists facing societal limitations Readers seeking an evocative journey through the complexities of life on the frontier will find The Lure of the Dim Trails to be an essential addition to their literary collection This book not only entertains with its engaging plot and richly drawn characters but also prompts reflection on the tension between civilization and wildness making it a poignant exploration of both personal and universal struggles
