

The Urinary System

The urinary system is responsible for filtering waste from the blood, maintaining fluid balance, and regulating blood pressure. It consists of the kidneys, ureters, bladder, and urethra.

The kidneys are located in the upper back, on either side of the spine. They are bean-shaped organs that filter blood and produce urine. The ureters are tubes that carry urine from the kidneys to the bladder.

The bladder is a sac-like organ that stores urine until it is ready to be expelled from the body. The urethra is the tube that carries urine from the bladder out of the body.

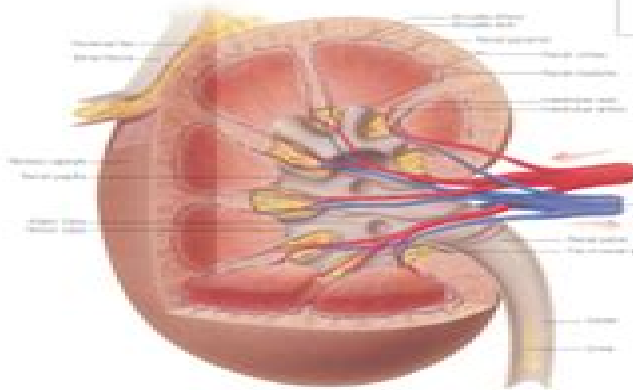

Structure of the kidneys

The kidneys are located in the upper back, on either side of the spine. They are bean-shaped organs that filter blood and produce urine. The ureters are tubes that carry urine from the kidneys to the bladder.

Functions of the kidneys

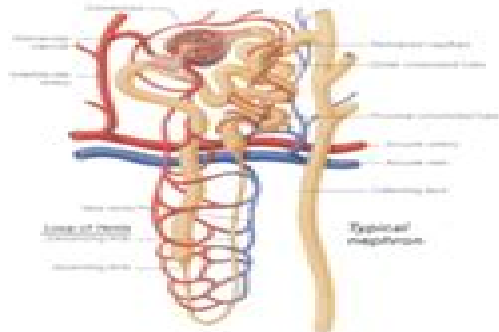

The kidneys have several functions, including filtering blood, maintaining fluid balance, and regulating blood pressure. They also produce hormones that help regulate the body's metabolism.

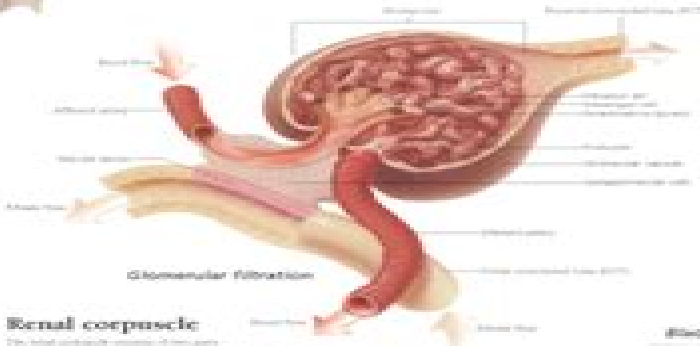

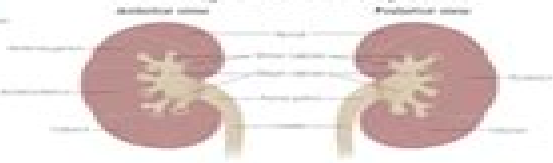

The nephron

The nephron is the basic functional unit of the kidney. It is responsible for filtering blood and producing urine. Each kidney contains about a million nephrons.

A single nephron consists of a renal corpuscle, which is the site of filtration, and a renal tubule, which is the site of reabsorption and secretion. The renal corpuscle is made up of a glomerulus, a cluster of small blood vessels, and a Bowman's capsule, which surrounds the glomerulus.

Segments of the kidney

Renal corpuscle

The renal corpuscle is the site of filtration in the kidney.

The renal corpuscle is made up of a glomerulus, a cluster of small blood vessels, and a Bowman's capsule, which surrounds the glomerulus. The glomerulus is located in the renal cortex, and the Bowman's capsule is located in the renal medulla.

The glomerulus is a cluster of small blood vessels that are responsible for filtering blood. The Bowman's capsule is a double-walled structure that surrounds the glomerulus and collects the filtered blood.

Filtrate formation

How urine is produced

The kidneys produce about 1.5 liters of urine each day. This process involves filtering blood, reabsorbing water and electrolytes, and secreting waste products into the urine.

- Glomerular filtration: The process of filtering blood into the Bowman's capsule.
- Tubular reabsorption: The process of reabsorbing water and electrolytes from the filtrate back into the blood.
- Tubular secretion: The process of secreting waste products from the blood into the filtrate.
