Understanding Psychological Testing in Children Stewart Gabel,G.D. Oster,S.M. Butnik,2013-06-29 There is a considerable amount of interest within pediatrics and primary health care that is currently being directed toward the behavioral and emotional problems of childhood Traditionally these areas have been emphasized by child psychiatrists child psychologists and psychiatric social workers Now however the detection and in some cases the assessment and treatment of children with these types of disturbances fall within the province of primary child health care professionals Even when the child psychiatrist or child psychologist provides the primary mental health treatment for the child specialists such as pediatricians family physicians pediatric nurses pediatric nurse practitioners and speech therapists remain instrumental in support of the ongoing psychotherapeutic process as providers of some other aspect of total health care to the child and family For these pediatricians family physicians and other nonpsychologist primary health care providers it is essential to acquire an understanding and effective working knowledge of important psychological information and concepts to utilize within their own framework and professional responsibilities In order that this may be accomplished these professionals with limited backgrounds in psychology must better understand how psychologists themselves assess children and how they derive the conclusions reflected in the statements and reports that are shared with members of their own and other disciplines In short nonpsychologists must become substantially more familiar with psychological assessment particularly with psychological testing and the subsequent reporting of results , Casebook of Clinical Neuropsychology Joel E. Morgan,Ida Sue Baron,Joseph H. Ricker,2010-10-29 Casebook of Clinical Neuropsychology features actual clinical neuropsychological cases drawn from leading experts files Each chapter represents a different case completed by a different expert Cases cover the lifespan from child to adult to geriatric and the types of cases will represent a broad spectrum of prototypical cases of well known and well documented disorders as well as some rarer disorders Chapter authors were specifically chosen for their expertise with particular disorders When a practitioner is going to see a child or an adult with X problem they can turn to the case and find up to date critical information to help them understand the issues related to the diagnosis a brief synopsis of the literature the patient's symptom presentation the evaluation including neuropsychological test results and other results from consultants along with treatments and recommendations Clinical cases represent a long established tradition as a teaching vehicle in the clinical sciences most prominently in medicine and psychology Case studies provide the student with actual clinical material data in the form of observations of the patient examination test data relevant history and related test results all of which must be integrated into a diagnostic conclusion and ultimately provide the patient with appropriate recommendations Critical to this educational heuristic process is the opportunity for the reader to view the thought processes of the clinician that resulted in the conclusions and recommendations offered With the science of the disorder as the foundation of this process readers learn how the integration of multiple sources of data furthers critical thinking skills
