INTRODUCTION 1 1 1 Purpose This chapter provides a general history of the development of military diving operations 1 1 2 Scope This chapter outlines the hard work and dedication of a number of individuals who were pioneers in the development of diving technology As with any endeavor it is important to build on the discoveries of our predecessors and not repeat mistakes of the past 1 1 3 Role of the U S Navy The U S Navy is a leader in the development of modern diving and underwater operations The general requirements of national defense and the specific requirements of underwater reconnaissance demolition ordnance disposal construction ship maintenance search rescue and salvage operations repeatedly give impetus to training and development Navy diving is no longer limited to tactical combat operations wartime salvage and submarine sinkings Fleet diving has become increasingly important and diversified since World War II A major part of the diving mission is inspecting and repairing naval vessels to minimize downtime and the need for dry docking Other aspects of fleet diving include recovering practice and research torpedoes installing and repairing underwater electronic arrays underwater construction and locating and recovering downed aircraft NHI Catalog National Highway Institute (U.S.),2010 Efficient Redundancy Design Practices T. M. Palmer,2003-02-01 The design of wastewater treatment plants with redundancy to assure a quality end product may be in conflict with efforts to assure effectiveness Redundancy of major system components is to assure compliance with regulations and protection of the environment and the health and safety of the public and treatment plant staff However the capital costs and maintenance associated with redundant equipment does not necessarily enhance facility performance There are a number of forces driving the level of redundancy in plant designs Federal and state compliance regulations and the design engineer s past experiences will influence the plant design To some extent the plant staff may also provide input into the plant design and therefore contributes to the redundancy This report determines alternative methods to address treatment plant redundancy including examples of methods currently in place and ideally insight on the premises leading to these applications A secondary objective is to identify the similarities and differences in redundancy requirements associated with federal and state regulatory agencies This publication can also be
