My idea of leadership is being able to inspire others, motivate, set a vision, communicate, respect others, and of course, lead by example. A leader must have an honest understanding of who they are, what they know, and what they are capable of. To be a successful leader, you have to be able to convince your followers, not just yourself or your superiors, that you are worthy of being followed. In my opinion, this can build confidence in their followers to have faith in you, in order to be able to lead. I strongly believe that good leaders are made rather, and not born.

If you have the desire and willpower, you can become an effective leader. Good leaders are developed through a never ending process of self-study, education, training, and experience. I was asked what leadership means to me. Leadership to me, means the ability to attain four things: social intelligence, initiative, setting a good example, and inspiration. In order to be a leader, I believe that you need to have the ability to work with people. As a leader, I have had to deal with different, sometimes divergent, opinions and temperaments. The way in which I communicate either builds or can harm the relationship between my soldier and I. When an important moment of discussion ari
