Energy Policy in the Emerging Economies Joachim Betz, Sören Scholvin, 2019-04-10 Energy has always been essential to economics and politics. While global energy consumption increases, fossil fuels are depleting. The countries that will be hit hardest by declining energy resources are the emerging economies of the Global South, where the relevance of the industrial sector is only slightly declining or indeed still on the rise and where governments have subsidised energy consumption for decades. Climate change, a direct outcome of the increasing consumption of fossil fuels, hits these emerging economies hard. Against this backdrop, Energy Policy in the Emerging Economies: Climate Change Mitigation under the Constraints of Path Dependence analyses energy policy in Brazil, China, India, Indonesia, Mexico, South Africa and South Korea, with particular regard to these countries' contributions to climate change mitigation. Advancing a new approach that expands on energy transition studies and the concept of path dependence, Sören Scholvin and Joachim Betz shed light on material conditions, energy demand and expansion plans, politico-economic constellations, energy-related know-how and climate policy. The Wiley International Handbook of Educational Leadership Duncan Waite, Ira Bogotch, 2017-03-17 A provocative and authoritative compendium of writings on leadership in education from distinguished scholar educators worldwide. What is educational leadership? What are some of the trends, questions and social forces most relevant to the current state of education? What are the possible futures of education and what can educational leadership contribute to these futures? To address these questions and more, editors Duncan Waite and Ira Bogotch asked distinguished international thought leaders on education to share their insights, observations and research findings on the nature of education and educational leadership in the global village. The Wiley International Handbook of Educational Leadership brings together contributions from authors in twenty-one countries spanning six continents. Topics examined include leadership and aesthetics, creativity, eco-justice, advocacy, Big Data and technology, neoliberalism, emerging philosophies and theories, critical democracy, gender and radical feminism, political economies, emotions, postcolonialism and new directions in higher education. A must-read for teachers, researchers, scholars and policy makers, this Handbook champions radical pluralism over consensus and pseudoscientific or political solutions to problems in education. Embraces social, economic and political relevance alongside the traditions of careful and systematic rigor. Challenges traditional epistemological, cultural and methodological concepts of education and educational leadership. Explores the field's historical antecedents and ways in which leadership can transcend the narrow disciplinary and bureaucratic constraints imposed by current research designs and methods. Advances radically new possibilities for remaking educational leadership research and educational institutions. Routledge Handbook of Food Waste Christian Reynolds, Tammara Soma, Charlotte Spring, Jordon Lazell, 2020-01-13 This comprehensive handbook represents a definitive state of the current art and science of food waste from multiple perspectives. Indigenous Water and Drought Management in a Changing World

Miguel Sioui, 2022-05-19 Indigenous Water and Drought Management in a Changing World presents a series of global case studies that examine how different Indigenous groups are dealing with various water management challenges and finding creative and culturally specific ways of developing solutions to these challenges. With contributions from Indigenous and non-Indigenous academics, scientists, and water management experts, this volume provides an overview of key water management challenges specific to Indigenous peoples, proposes possible policy solutions both at the international and national levels, and outlines culturally relevant tools for assessing vulnerability and building capacity. In recent decades, global climate change, particularly drought, has brought about additional water management challenges, especially in drought-prone regions where increasing average temperatures and diminishing precipitation are leading to water crises. Because their livelihoods are often dependent on the land and water, Indigenous groups native to those regions have direct insights into the localized impacts of global environmental change and are increasingly developing their own adaptation and mitigation strategies and solutions based on local Indigenous knowledge (IK). Many Indigenous groups around the globe are also faced with mounting pressure from extractive industries like mining and forestry, which further threaten their water resources. The various cases presented in Indigenous Water and Drought Management in a Changing World provide much-needed insights into the particular issues faced by Indigenous peoples in preserving their water resources, as well as actionable information that can inform future scientific research and policymaking aimed at developing more integrated, region-specific and culturally relevant solutions to these critical challenges. Includes diverse case studies from around the world. Provides cutting-edge perspectives about Indigenous peoples' water management issues and IK-based solutions. Presents maps for most case studies along with a summary box to conclude each chapter.

Long Walk to Nowhere Philip Frankel, 2016-04-30 The end of apartheid has triggered massive illegal immigration into South Africa from all parts of Africa and beyond. Along with urbanization and internal migration, the end of apartheid has encouraged human smuggling and the trafficking of men, women, and children into the commercial sex market and various sectors of the economy, from mining to agriculture and the service industries. Long Walk to Nowhere analyzes the impact of these developments on Nelson Mandela's vision for a democratic South Africa. Frankel explores human rights, the political culture, public health, the criminal justice system, and institutional development as South Africa moves into its third decade after liberation. Using migration and human trafficking as barometers for democratic success, Frankel establishes that South Africa has become more unstable under two post-Mandela presidencies. The book covers the three major modes of human trafficking: commercial sex trafficking, child trafficking, and labor trafficking. It also looks at the dynamics of trafficking with a perpetrator focus, the complex issues of dominance, and the policy responses in light of South Africa's first comprehensive counter-trafficking legislation designed for implementation in late 2015. Long Walk to Nowhere blends South African experiences with contemporary mass political movements which challenge human rights and good governance on a world-wide basis.

Flows and Practices Lyla Mehta,Bill

Derman,2017-05-19 For the past two decades Integrated Water Resources Management IWRM has been the dominant paradigm in water resources This book explores how ideas of IWRM are being translated and adapted in Mozambique South Africa Tanzania Uganda and Zimbabwe Grounded in social science theory and research it highlights the importance of politics history and culture in shaping water management practices and reform and demonstrates how Africa has clearly been a laboratory for IWRM While a new cadre of professionals made IWRM their mission we show that poor women and men may not have always benefitted In some cases IWRM has also offered a distraction from more critical issues such as water and land grabs privatisation the negative impacts of water permits and a range of institutional ambiguities that prevent water allocations to small and poor water users By critically examining the interpretations and challenges of IWRM the book contributes to improving water policies and practices and making them more locally appropriate in Africa and beyond

Minerals Yearbook ,2010 Water Challenges in Rural and Urban Sub-Saharan Africa and their Management

Joan Nyika,Megersa Olumana Dinka,2023-04-20 Sub Saharan Africa grapples with many public health issues such as food insecurity increased prevalence of infectious diseases limited access to clean water supply poor nutrition and lack of improved health services for its populace IMF 2021 Of all these challenges the inaccessibility of clean water supply for both the rural and urban populace is the most pressing challenge which has been exacerbated by extensive pollution and climate change crises The issue of water access and supply affects both rural and urban populations At rural areas water is accessed in yard taps and in arid regions through water kiosks managed by private owners Among the urban poor water access is compromised by poor supply infrastructure especially among informal settlers and risks such as contamination during the supply chain are imminent This book therefore seeks to close this knowledge gap by 1 generating a water resources inventory for Sub Saharan Africa region 2 exploring the water crises in both its urban and rural settings 3 understanding the causatives of the crises and 4 suggesting viable solutions to manage the water challenges using named case studies The aim is to improve understanding on the region s water problems and advise scholars and policymakers on priority research areas and action plans to better water management for sustainable development
