Conversations with Texas Writers Frances Leonard, Ramona Cearley, 2010-01-01 Larry McMurtry declares Texas itself doesn't have anything to do with why I write. It never did. Horton Foote, on the other hand, says I've just never had a desire to write about any place else. In between those figurative bookends are hundreds of other writers, some internationally recognized, others just becoming known, who draw inspiration and often subject matter from the unique places and people that are Texas. To give everyone who is interested in Texas writing a representative sampling of the breadth and vitality of the state's current literary production, this volume features conversations with fifty of Texas's most notable established writers and emerging talents. The writers included here work in a wide variety of genres: novels, short stories, poetry, plays, screenplays, essays, nonfiction, and magazine journalism. In their conversations with interviewers from the Writers League of Texas and other authors' organizations, the writers speak of their apprenticeships, literary influences, working habits, connections with their readers, and the domestic and public events that have shaped their writing. Accompanying the interviews are excerpts from the writers' work as well as their photographs, biographies, and bibliographies. Joe Holley's introductory essay, an overview of Texas writing from Cabeza de Vaca's 1542 Relaci3n to the work of today's generation of writers who are equally at home in Hollywood as in Texas, provides the necessary context to appreciate such a diverse collection of literary voices. A sampling from the book: This land has been my subject matter. One thing that distinguishes me from the true naturalist is that I've never been able to look at land without thinking of the people who've been on it. It's fundamental to me. John Graves: Writing is a way to keep ourselves more in touch with everything we experience. It seems the best gifts and thoughts are given to us when we pause, take a deep breath, look around, see what's there, and return to where we were. Naomi Shihab Nye: I've said this many times in print: the novel is the middle age genre. Very few people have written really good novels when they are young, and few people have written really good novels when they are old. You just tail off and lose a certain level of concentration. Your imaginative energy begins to lag. I feel like I'm repeating myself, and most writers do repeat themselves. Larry McMurtry: I was a pretty poor cowhand. I grew up on the Macaraw Ranch east of Crane, Texas. My father tried very hard to make a cowboy out of me, but in my case it never seemed to work too well. I had more of a literary bent. I loved to read and very early on I began to write small stories, short stories out of the things I liked to read. Elmer Kelton. Words on Cassette, 2002 R.R. Bowker Publishing, 2002. Sleuths in Skirts Frances A. DellaCava, Madeline H. Engel, 2002. This volume is a comprehensive collection of critical essays on The Taming of the Shrew and includes extensive discussions of the play's various printed versions and its theatrical productions. Aspinall has included only those essays that offer the most influential and controversial arguments surrounding the play. The issues discussed include gender, authority, female autonomy, and unruliness, courtship and marriage, language and speech, and performance and theatricality. Library Journal, 1998. Crime Fiction and Film in the Southwest Steve Glassman, Maurice J. O'Sullivan, 2001. When Joe Leaphorn and Jim Chee, Tony Hillerman's oddly matched tribal police officers, patrol the mesas and canyons of their Navajo reservation they join a rich tradition of Southwestern detectives In Crime Fiction and Film in the Southwest a group of literary critics tracks the mystery and crime novel from the Painted Desert to Death Valley and Salt Lake City In addition the book includes the first comprehensive bibliography of mysteries set in the Southwest and a chapter on Southwest film noir from Humphrey Bogart's tough hood in The Petrified Forest to Russell Crowe's hard nosed cop in L A Confidential Publishers Weekly ,1995 The Book Lover's Tour of Texas Jessie Gunn Stephens,2004 This book takes readers on a literary ride across the Lone Star State J Frank Dobie tells true stories of rattlesnakes and buried treasure Jodi Thomas finds romance in the oilfields The Library Journal ,1997 Includes beginning Sept 15 1954 and on the 15th of each month Sept May a special section School library journal ISSN 0000 0035 called Junior libraries 1954 May 1961 Also issued separately
