Art for the Middle Classes Cynthia Lee Patterson,2011-02-03 How did the average American learn about art in the mid nineteenth century With public art museums still in their infancy and few cities and towns large enough to support art galleries or print shops Americans relied on mass circulated illustrated magazines One group of magazines in particular known collectively as the Philadelphia pictorials circulated fine art engravings of paintings some produced exclusively for circulation in these monthlies to an eager middle class reading audience These magazines achieved print circulations far exceeding those of other print media such as illustrated gift books or catalogs from art union membership organizations Godey s Graham s Peterson s Miss Leslie s and Sartain s Union Magazine included two to three fine art engravings monthly tipped in to the fronts of the magazines and designed for pull out and display Featuring the work of a fledgling group of American artists who chose American rather than European themes for their paintings these magazines were crucial to the distribution of American art beyond the purview of the East Coast elite to a widespread middle class audience Contributions to these magazines enabled many American artists and engravers to earn for the first time in the young nation s history a modest living through art Author Cynthia Lee Patterson examines the economics of artistic production innovative engraving techniques regional imitators the textual illustrations accompanying engravings and the principal artists and engravers contributing to these magazines Record of Current Educational Publications ,1922 China's International
