How to Enhance Learning Efficiency When Online Learning is Popular and Indispensable: Theory, Research and Practice Rong Lian, Chang Liu, Juzhe Xi, 2024-07-17 Online learning has become more and more common globally whether for comfort adapting to work hours or just having the freedom to study from anywhere And now under the coronavirus pandemic as people are having to stay at home it has become more important than ever Although the popularity of wireless network and portable smart device makes it possible for people to acquire and learn knowledge anytime and anywhere it does not necessarily mean an increased learning performance Relevant research in cognitive science has revealed possible limitations in online learning For example the knowledge acquired through online learning tends to be fragmented and lacks guidance for integrated thinking among different subjects which makes it difficult for learners to form a systematic knowledge structure Learners may experience cognitive overload metacognitive illusion and low learning efficiency in self regulated learning It follows that in the post COVID 19 era online learning puts forward new requirements and challenges to the contemporary students not only to their learning strategies but positive character traits in learning Most of the current learning theories were developed in the early 20th century and may not fit in well with the current situation then possibly leading to inefficient learning and increased learning burden Therefore it is necessary and important to reexplore the influencing factors and mechanisms that affect the learning efficiency of students at all levels nowadays based on which we could construct a theoretical model of efficient learning model Excel HSC Economics J.

SCIENCE PROJECTS IN RENEWABLE ENERGY AND ENERGY EFFICIENCY, The Value of Science Projects Science projects are an especially effective way of teaching students about the world around them Whether conducted in the classroom or for a science fair science projects can help develop critical thinking and problem solving skills In a classroom setting science projects offer a way for teachers to put action into the lessons The students have fun while they re learning important knowledge and skills And the teacher often learns with the students experiencing excitement with each new discovery Science projects are generally of two types non experimental and experimental Non experimental projects usually reflect what the student has read or heard about in an area of science By creating displays or collections of scientific information or demonstrating certain natural phenomena the student goes through a process similar to a library research report or a meta analysis in any other subject Projects of this type may be appropriate for some students at a very early level but they usually do not provide the experiences that develop problem solving skills related to the scientific process. On the other hand, experimental projects pose a question or hypothesis which is then answered by doing an experiment or by modeling a phenomenon. The question doesn't have to be something never before answered by a scientist that is not necessary to conduct original research. The process of picking a topic, designing an experiment and recording and analyzing data is what's important.
