Critique and Praxis Bernard E. Toward A Psychology of Persons William E. Smythe, 2013-05-13 This closely integrated collection of essays constitutes a wide ranging and comprehensive attempt to understand persons within psychology a long lost enterprise The volume was inspired by the observation that contemporary psychology has become increasingly depersonalized in its conceptions and its methodology and has thereby lost touch with its traditional subject matter of human individuality and the nature of persons This development now threatens the integrity of psychology as a discipline Using both a critical and constructive approach the various contributors share two common objectives to explore the roots of depersonalization in modern psychology through systematic criticism of contemporary functionalist and neo functionalist approaches to articulate some alternative holistic interpretive and historical approaches to the psychology of persons Despite these common objectives the chapters reflect a wide variety of theoretical perspectives and approaches including cognitive science and neuroscience discursive psychology hermeneutics social constructionism semiotics rhetorical analysis and psychological aesthetics These essays do not converge on a unified psychology of persons but they do serve to reopen a form of discourse that has long been absent from mainstream psychology This volume emerged from the deliberations of the Western Canadian Theoretical Psychologists WCTP a group of scholars primarily from Western Canadian universities with shared interests in the history and theory of psychology From its founding in 1989 to the present the WCTP has been actively engaged in promoting and contributing to the development of theoretical psychology Over the past half dozen years scholars have greatly benefitted from the close collaboration and collegial support that participation in the WCTP makes possible The annual meetings provide an

Fractures and Deformities of the Lower Extremity in Children and Adolescents: Etiology, Diagnosis, and Treatment Xin Tang, Federico Canavese, Shunyou Chen, 2024-10-08

Lower extremity fractures and deformities in children and adolescents are a heterogeneous group of conditions caused by a variety of diseases ranging from the hip joint to the foot. While some are caused by known trauma, others may be a consequence of developmental disorders or mutations in various genes. The presenting symptoms and signs may vary from cosmetic findings to the dysfunction of the limb, except fractures. Despite advances in diagnosis and treatment, there is still a lack of understanding of the etiology and pathogenesis of many of these conditions. Furthermore, there are ongoing challenges in the diagnosis and treatment of rare or complex fractures and deformities of the lower extremity. To address these challenges, the present Research Topic aims to call for manuscripts describing unique cases with follow-up and treatment, as well as studies examining the outcome and prognosis. This will increase awareness of these conditions and lead to improved diagnosis and treatment for children and adolescents.
