Ideas to Know:

- Matter is anything that takes up space and has mass.
- Three states of matter are solids, liquids, and gases.
- An object's physical properties include its size, shape, texture, smell, taste, and color.
- Solids have particles that are packed together firmly and connected. Solids have a definite shape and volume.
- Liquids have particles that are loosely connected and flow past one another. A liquid does not have a definite shape. It takes the shape of its container. Liquids do have a definite volume.
- Gas particles bounce off one another as they move freely. Gases have no definite shape or volume. A gas expands to fill all of the available space.
- The elements on a periodic table are organized by their individual properties.
- An atom is the smallest particle of an element that has properties of that element.
- Mass is the amount of matter an object has. Mass is measured with a balance scale. An object's mass is the same EVERYWHERE, but its weight may be different.
- If an object sinks in the water, it has little buoyancy. The object has more density than the water.
- A km (1,000 m) can be used to measure longer distances (from one place to another) —similar to a mile in customary units.
- Volume can be determined by measuring the amount of space an object occupies.
- Volume can be measured using a graduated cylinder or measuring cup. To find the volume of a box, you can see how many cubes of a certain size can fit inside the box.
- Scientists measure an object's length by using a ruler with centimeters (cm) or a meter (m) stick.
- Volume of a liquid is measured in milliliters (mL) or liters (L) by scientists.
- An object's mass is measured by using a balance scale. Scientists use grams (g) or kilograms (kg) when measuring mass.
- American scientists and doctors use the metric system instead of customary units because:
 - Scientists and doctors around the world use the metric system. This allows for a common language that everyone can understand
 - It is easier to use the metric system since the units are based on a system of 10 instead of random numbers like customary units.
