 Enrique León-Sicard , Diego Griffon, Massimo De Marchi, 2024-08-20 Maintaining and managing agrobiodiversity is a key issue proposed by agroecology not only to maintain high agricultural productivity but also to increase the resilience stability and sustainability of the agroecosystems meant as the functional relationship between the natural assets and the human use of them at farm and farm matrix scale The main hypothesis of this approach is that the greater the interactions between organisms of different trophic levels edaphic organisms multiple crops weed plants herbivores carnivores plants in living fences corridors or forest patches within agroecosystems the greater will be the possibilities of obtaining abundant and varied harvests with fewer external inputs pesticides fertilizers and better environmental performance The agrobiodiversity is meant as the variety and the disposition of the cultivations pastures farms that affect the soil properties and create habitat diversity landscape diversity and connectivity At the level of landscapes or territories the set of biodiverse agroecosystems generate natural matrices that have a powerful impact on the recovery and restoration of forest corridors which in turn positively influence many ecosystem services for nature conservation and free movement and recovery of many populations of animal species including those in danger of extinction Cracking the TExES Princeton Review, 2005-01-25 This guide
