Concurrent planning of railway maintenance windows and train services Tomas Lidén, 2018-11-05 Efficiency in public and freight transportation systems is of great importance for a society Railways can offer high capacity and relatively low environmental impact but require that several technical systems are tuned and operate well Specifically there is a tight interdependency between infrastructure and trains The consequences are that all subsystems must be maintained and that the coordination of infrastructure activities and train operations is essential Railway infrastructure maintenance and train services should ideally be planned together but practice and research about railway scheduling has historically focused mainly on train operations and timetabling while maintenance planning has received less attention and little research has considered the joint scheduling of both types of activities Instead the traditional approach has been a sequential and iterative planning procedure where train timetabling often has precedence over infrastructure maintenance This thesis studies how maintenance windows which are regular time windows reserved for maintenance work can be dimensioned and jointly scheduled with train services in a balanced and efficient way for both maintenance contractors and train operators Mathematical methods are used with the aim of advancing the knowledge about quantitative methods for solving such coordination problems The thesis contributes with new optimization models that jointly schedule maintenance windows and train services investigates the solving efficiency of these models and studies crucial extensions of the planning problem primarily for the consideration of maintenance resources Furthermore the models are applied to verified and validated on a demanding real life problem instance The main results are that integrated and optimal scheduling of maintenance windows and train services is viable for problems of practical size and importance and that substantial maintenance cost savings can be achieved with such an integrated approach as compared to a traditional sequential planning process The thesis consists of an introduction and overview of the research followed by six papers which present 1 A cost benefit model for assessment of competing capacity requests at a single location 2 An optimization model for integrated scheduling of both maintenance windows and train services 3 Mathematical reformulations that strengthen the optimization model 4 Extensions for handling resource considerations and cyclic schedules 5 A case study for a major single track line in Sweden and 6 A mathematical study of length restricted sequences under cyclic conditions

Local Governments and Rural Development Krister Andersson, Gustavo Gordillo, Frank van Laerhoven, 2009 Despite the recent economic upswing in many Latin American countries rural poverty rates in the region have actually increased during the past two decades Experts blame excessively centralized public administrations for the lackluster performance of public policy initiatives In response decentralization reforms have become a common government strategy for improving public sector performance in rural areas The effect of these reforms is a topic of considerable debate among government officials policy scholars and citizens groups This book offers a systematic analysis of how local governments and farmer groups in Latin America are actually faring today Based on interviews with more than 1 200 mayors local officials and farmers in 390 municipal territories in four Latin American nations the authors analyze the ways in which different forms of decentralization affect the governance arrangements for rural development on the ground Their comparative analysis suggests that rural development outcomes are systemically linked to locally negotiated institutional arrangements formal and informal between government officials NGOs and farmer groups that operate in the local sphere They find that local government actors contribute to public services that better assist the rural poor when local actors cooperate to develop their own institutional arrangements for participatory planning horizontal learning and the joint production of services This study brings substantive data and empirical analysis to a discussion that has until now more often depended on qualitative research in isolated cases With more than 60 percent of Latin America s rural population living in poverty the results are both timely and crucial , Minnesota Tax Revenue & Policy Review ,1989 Financial Accounting, 12th Edition John Hoggett,John Medlin,Keryn Chalmers,Claire Beattie,Andreas Hellmann,Jodie Maxfield,2024-02-12 A benchmark Financial Accounting text over the past 30 years Hoggett s Financial Accounting has been refreshed in this twelfth edition A must have for students who want to succeed in their unit and leave with a rich foundation of technical knowledge for their future study and accounting career the text focuses on accounting from the perspective of a financial statement preparer With two versions being published Hoggett s Financial Accounting can be used for either the typical one semester course or Hoggett s Accounting with six additional introductory management accounting chapters can extend to two semesters The eBook edition of Financial Accounting 12th Edition features a range of instructional media content designed to provide students with an interactive and engaging learning experience This unique resource can also form the basis of a blended learning solution for lecturers Accounting John Hoggett,John Medlin,Keryn Chalmers,Claire Beattie,Andreas Hellmann,Jodie Maxfield,2024-01-29 A benchmark Accounting text over the past 30 years Hoggett s Accounting has been refreshed in this twelfth edition A must have for students who want to succeed in their unit and leave with a rich foundation of technical knowledge for their future study and accounting career the text focuses on accounting from the perspective of a financial statement preparer With two versions being published Hoggett s Financial Accounting can be used for either the typical one semester course or Hoggett s Accounting with 6 additional introductory management accounting chapters can extend to two semesters The eBook edition of Accounting 12th Edition features a range of instructional media content designed to provide students with an interactive and engaging learning experience This unique resource can also form the basis of a blended learning solution for lecturers International Tax Policy Tsilly Dagan,2018 Explains why perfecting rather than curbing interstate competition would make international taxation both more efficient and more just
