are locally based media employees who serve as translators coordinators and guides to foreign journalists in unfamiliar terrain Operating in the shadows fixers contributions to journalism are largely hidden from us yet they underpin the entire international news industry almost every international news story we read today could not be produced without a fixer Indeed without fixers on the ground skill and intimate knowledge of a territory journalists would struggle to document stories unfolding in countries outside their own Despite this however fixers remain one of the most under protected and undervalued

groups contributing to the production of news Targeted by militant groups and governments even by their neighbors they must often engage in a precarious balancing act bridging the divides between foreign journalists and the people who live and work in fixers own communities In this book Lindsay Palmer reveals the lives and struggle of those performing some of the most important work in international news Drawing on interviews with 75 fixers around the world Palmer is the first researcher to illuminate fixers own rich narratives offering a glimpse of how difficult it is to play the role of cultural mediator both in and out of conflict zones A news fixers is not simply administrative rather the fixer s engagement with the story is editorial and more importantly cultural Each task that a fixer takes on is a creative effort at mediating between different lived experiences of race ethnicity gender sexuality religion politics community and nation Ultimately The Fixers offers a different picture of international reporting than most people are accustomed to seeing one that is more collaborative more contested and more fluid in its understanding of truth in a global cross cultural context
