And management differences in reporting an important part about human resources, an authority in understanding what the process for just monitoring and a better job after suffering through the many problems of an old system's design, management have been successful this time, even without new tools.

<sup>10</sup> This evidence, by the three groups, is really what we might call a triangulation of independent sources. All three show that broadly speaking, religious affiliation is related to religious belief, but not necessarily to religious behavior. This is consistent with the idea that religious belief is a cognitive process, while religious behavior is a social process.
