Lovejoy, 2019-12-01 Originally published in 1948 In the first essay of this collection Lovejoy reflects on the nature methods and difficulties of the historiography of ideas He maps out recurring phenomena in the history of ideas which the essays illustrate One phenomenon is the presence and influence of the same presuppositions or other operative ideas in very diverse provinces of thought and in different periods Another is the role of semantic transitions and confusions of shifts and of ambiguities in the meanings of terms in the history of thought and taste A third phenomenon is the internal tensions or waverings in the mind of almost every individual writer sometimes discernible even in a single writing or on a single page arising from conflicting ideas or incongruous propensities of feeling or taste to which the writer is susceptible These essays do not contribute to metaphysical and epistemological questions they are primarily historical

The Wealth of Reality Margaret A. Syverson, 1999 Margaret A. Syverson discusses the ways in which a theory of composing situations as ecological systems might productively be applied in composition studies She demonstrates not only how new research in cognitive science and complex systems can inform composition studies but also how composing situations can provide fruitful ground for research in cognitive science Syverson first introduces theories of complex systems currently studied in diverse disciplines She describes complex systems as adaptive self organizing and dynamic neither utterly chaotic nor entirely ordered these systems exist on the boundary between order and chaos Ecological systems are metasystems composed of interrelated complex systems Writers readers and texts together with their environments constitute one kind of ecological system Four attributes of complex systems provide a theoretical framework for this study distribution embodiment emergence and enaction Three case studies provide evidence for the application of these concepts an analysis of a passage from an autobiographical poem by Charles Reznikoff a study of first year college students writing collaboratively and a conflict in a computer forum of social scientists during the Gulf War The diversity of these cases tests the robustness of theories of distributed cognition and complex systems and suggests possibilities for wider application

Syverson concludes with a discussion of some implications of an ecological approach for composition research pedagogy and assessment presenting the Learning Record model as one practical application of the theory Finally she argues that technological changes have created new environments for composing providing an opportunity to reconsider conventional environments as well The Optional Essay Problem and the Hypothesis of Equal Difficulty Nancy L. Hafer, 2014-09-10 Embracing WRITING Embracing Writing responds to the writing across the curriculum movement in a way that enables educators to integrate writing into their courses not just painlessly but productively instead of simply increasing their workloads with writing assignments that students dislike Embracing Writing elucidates the principles of academic writing and shows instructors how to integrate writing with course content blending them to enhance and deepen the higher education learning process Scholarly writing is a central part of the academic experience and when used effectively can be an outstanding pedagogical tool The creative approach in Embracing Writing will have you looking at writing in a whole new way Not only will your students appreciate the honest nurturing and fun writing assignments but your own writing will improve as well This is not a rulebook for writers but a guided approach to viewing writing and content as one indivisible whole Embracing Writing will help you Engage students in writing assignments that actually help them develop their writing ability Understand what makes good collegiate writing and how it can aid in content discovery Discover new pathways for your own writing so writing for publication and the classroom is enjoyable again Develop a writing pedagogy that doesn t detract from core course content delivery There often is a disconnect between administrative demands for in course writing and the inadequate training resources available to faculty members Because most of us aren t trained as writers we need a meaningful way to connect writing to our areas of expertise Embracing Writing provides that connection
