

Abstract

Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the physical fitness and health of sedentary, middle-aged men. The program consisted of three sessions per week, each lasting 45 minutes. The first session was a warm-up, the second was a cardiovascular workout, and the third was a strength training session. The results showed that the men who participated in the program showed significant improvements in their physical fitness and health. The program was found to be effective in improving cardiovascular fitness, muscular strength, and body composition. The program was also found to be effective in improving health-related quality of life. The results of this study suggest that a 10-week training program can be an effective way to improve physical fitness and health in sedentary, middle-aged men.
