Groes,2015-12-04 London has become the focus of a ferocious imaginative energy since the rise of Thatcher The Making of London analyses the body of work by writers who have committed their writing to the many lives of a city undergoing complex transformations tracing a major shift in the representation of the capital city Limits to Culture Malcolm Miles,2015-06-20 How can we unmask the vested interests behind capital s cultural urban agenda Limits to Culture pits grass roots cultural dissent against capital's continuing project of control via urban planning. In the 1980s notions of the creative class were expressed through a cultural turn in urban policy towards the creative city. Deindustrialisation created a shift away from how people understood and used urban space and consequently gentrification spread. With it came the elimination of diversity and urban dynamism; new art museums and cultural or heritage quarters lent a creative mask to urban redevelopment. This book examines this process from the 1960s to the present day, revealing how the notion of creativity has been neutered in order to quell dissent. In the 1960s creativity was identified with revolt, yet from the 1980s onwards it was subsumed in consumerism, which continued in the 1990s through cool Britannia culture and its international reflections. Today austerity and the scarcity of public money reveal how the illusory creative city has given way to reveal its hollow interior through urban clearances and underdevelopment.

Megaevents and Modernity Maurice Roche, 2002-11 Explores the social history and politics of mega events from the late 19th century to the present. Case studies: 1936 Berlin Olympics, 1992 Barcelona Olympics, 1851 Crystal Palace Expo. A thoroughly new and ground-breaking analysis.

The Book Of Lists London Nick Rennison, 2009-08-06 Why did London Underground once employ a one-legged man to ride up and down the escalators at Earl's Court tube station? What did Hitler plan to do with Nelson's Column? Why is London's only medieval mummy a prostitute named Clarice la Clatterballock? How did a beer flood in Tottenham Court Road drown nine people? Where can you see a pair of Queen Victoria's knickers? Containing chapters covering London past and present, buildings and streets, famous and unexpected Londoners, arts, literature and crime, plus much, much more, the 180 lists will amaze, amuse and inform. More than simply a keepsake for tourists, every self-respecting Londoner needs this book.

Contemporary British Fiction and the Cultural Politics of Disenfranchisement A. Beaumont, 2015-12-05 By examining the representation of urban space in contemporary British fiction, this book argues that key to the political left's strategy was a model of action which folded politics into culture and elevated disenfranchisement to the status of a political principle.

Charles Dickens in Cyberspace Jay Clayton, 2003-08-07 Charles Dickens in Cyberspace opens a window on a startling set of literary and scientific links between contemporary American culture and the nineteenth-century heritage it often repudiates. Surveying a wide range of novelists, scientists, filmmakers and theorists from the past two centuries, Jay Clayton traces the concealed circuits that connect the telegraph with the Internet, Charles Babbage's Difference Engine with the digital computer, Frankenstein's monster with cyborgs and clones, and Dickens' life and fiction with all manner of contemporary popular culture from comic books and advertising to recent novels and films. In the process, Clayton argues for two important principles: that postmodernism has a hidden or repressed connection with the nineteenth century and that revealing those connections can aid in the development of a historical cultural studies. In Charles Dickens in Cyberspace, nineteenth-century figures Jane Austen, Charles Darwin, Charles Dickens, Thomas Hardy, Henry James, Ada Lovelace, Joseph Paxton, Mary Shelley, and Mary Somerville meet a lively group of counterparts from today: Andrea Barrett, Greg Bear, Peter
