Small Scale Poultry Farming Razzab Shaikh, 2014-12-27 Small scale poultry production is an obvious and well documented opportunity for poor farmers to start an income generating activity Poultry are cheap easy to rear and easy to manage Consequently there has been and there is a growing attention and interest in poultry production in villages as well as in peri urban and urban areas throughout the developing world However existing manuals and books either give advice on industrial production systems using improved imported breeds under highly controlled conditions or very simple field guides giving little useful advice on how to rear poultry with profit in mind at village level This manual is based on existing knowledge on how to improve village poultry production systems with relatively few inputs This manual will exclusively deal with free range systems consisting of small flocks of indigenous chickens or their crosses and smallholder flocks of improved or hybrid commercial chickens Poultry production can be divided into four sectors 1 industrial and integrated 2 commercial high biosecurity 3 commercial low biosecurity 4 village and family or backyard poultry The focus here is largely on sectors 3 and 4 but there may be some overlap Family poultry as defined by the International Network for Family Poultry Development covers sectors 3 and 4 which encompass small scale poultry production There are numerous poultry handbooks which cover sectors 2 and 3 but this hand book has attempted in two manuals to cover mainly sector 3 while not ignoring the great importance of biosecurity particularly in the face of highly pathogenic avian influenza H5N1 It is envisaged that given time some producers now in sector 3 may move into sector 2 The two manuals are pitched at two different levels The Trainer's instructor manual assumes that the trainer has qualifications and or experience in a branch of agricultural science but not necessarily in poultry production Some of the material included is beyond that necessary to give an initial course in poultry production but may be useful as the farmer progresses from sector 3 to sector 2 The trainee's manual has numerous illustrations and is aimed at a lower level than for the trainer The farmer may be interested in starting a poultry enterprise or is already producing poultry in a small scale commercial or semi commercial opportunistic situation but would like to make poultry farming more permanent The course will allow the farmer to increase his/her knowledge and skills and to become aware of a number of important issues e.g. managing the environment disease surveillance of his/her enterprise In order to minimise repetition there is some material in the trainee's manual that is not in the trainer's manual Trainers should familiarise themselves thoroughly with both manuals The third manual is for the millions of families worldwide in low income developing countries who keep backyard poultry mainly unmanaged with few inputs but nevertheless are of great importance by providing some security income and high quality protein It is hoped that this manual will make families aware of the possibility of improving output with a minimum of input Much of the information has been taken from a range of sources as well as the author's own experience of working in several developing countries over 25 years Ideally there should be a small scale demonstration unit or a poultry farm available so that the trainees can see first hand and better understand the main points in these manuals and observe how commercial poultry production should be practiced The importance of community poultry farming is seen as a critical step in alleviating poverty of household poultry keepers empowering women increasing income and moving from a scavenging system to one that is likely to be sustainable

Village Chicken Production Systems in Rural Africa Aichi J. Kitalyi, Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 1998-01-01 The poultry production systems of Africa are mainly based on the scavenging indigenous chickens found in virtually all villages and households in rural Africa These systems are characterized by low output per bird Nevertheless over 70 percent of the poultry products and 20 percent of animal protein intake in most African countries come from this sector Therefore increased rural poultry production would result in a positive impact on household food security both in increased dietary intake and in income generation This study coincided with the World Food Summit held at FAO Rome from 13 to 17 November 1996 where delegations committed their governments and civil society to a global attack on food insecurity and poverty Poultry like other short cycle animal stock is viewed by the FAO Special Programme for Food Security SPFS as a crucial element in the struggle for sustained food production and poverty alleviation The guidelines provided in this study are particularly pertinent to those countries participating in the SPFS where village chicken production will have a substantial impact on increased household food security and gender equity Foreword

Small-Scale Poultry Production Sam Peterson, 2021-01-14 Keeping poultry makes a substantial contribution to household food security throughout the developing world It helps diversify incomes and provides quality food energy fertilizer and a renewable asset in over 80 percent of rural households Small scale producers are however constrained by poor access to markets goods and services they have weak institutions and lack skills knowledge and appropriate technologies The result is that both production and productivity remain well below potential and losses and wastage can be high However adapted breeds local feed resources and appropriate vaccines are available along with proven technologies that can substantially improve productivity and income generation These book target the more vulnerable households especially those affected by natural disasters HIV Aids and conflict This manual provides a comprehensive and valuable technical guide for those in government service or aid agencies wishing to embark on projects that exploit the potential of small scale poultry production to improve the livelihoods of the rural poor All aspects of small scale poultry production are discussed in this book including feeding and nutrition housing general husbandry and flock health Regional differences in production practices are described

Researchers and policy planners are in search of a solution to address the twin challenges of maximizing agricultural production while maintaining improving ecosystem sustainability Enhancing farm productivity is needed in certain regions of the world to satisfy local food consumption and farmers needs Linear economy based input intensive conventional agriculture CAPS has increased production output but has not made agriculture more sustainable Henceforth a farming system that aims to reduce the adverse impact on the environment as well as enhance agricultural productivity by reducing environmental footprint and improving soil health and economic wellbeing is needed in the present day Integrated organic farming systems IOFS involve residue recycling bio intensive cropping high tech horticulture mushroom dairy poultry fishery apiary etc can improve the ecosystem health and augment the income and livelihood security of the growers Worldwide IOFS are gaining popularity due to improved ecosystem services and improving farm productivity and livelihood security Hence IOFS a circular economy based reuse recycle repair agricultural production system can be alternatives to energy intensive inputs based on CAPS Hence there is an urgent need to select suitable IOFS models with proper resource optimization for productivity maximization and better ecosystem sustainability Undoubtedly IOFS reduces energy use from synthetic agrochemicals but food production in IOFS is highly dependent on fossil fuel energy that must be addressed urgently Despite the enormous positive outlooks there are several challenges in the adoption of IOFS models The IOFS is a multiproduct oriented production system that needs multi specialties and marketing Capacity building and infrastructure development are also great challenges in adopting IOFS Moreover the development of IOFS models is highly individualistic and location specific production systems need proper resource optimization and characterization Hence the development of site specific IOFS models to maintain food quality with productivity improvement is a genuine issue to the researchers which needs to be addressed Papers original research review letter to the editors spanning across the discipline related to the IOFS development in sustainable ways are encouraged for inclusion in this research topic Papers should explicitly cover ecosystem restoration farm productivity and profitability and could have a specific focus on the following areas the IOFS models for enhancing productivity and environmental quality through an integrated management approach aiming at the maximization of use efficiencies the management of biomass waste to restore the soil fertility and ecosystem services the effect of integrated management practices on greenhouse gas emissions and energy use Critical approaches for climate smart food production systems
