

Teen Smoking

Madison Robinson

In recent years the amount of teens that smoke has sky rocketed. Most of these teens started smoking to improve their self image. They are doing it anywhere that parental supervision is not present. By smoking these teens can get cancer or lung disease. These teens need to know that it doesn't make them look cool.

One solution could be to reduce the public image of smoking. Ads in magazines are constantly promoting smoking. When teens read these magazines they get a message telling them that smoking is cool. If we could stop the ads then teens would no longer get the message and it would no longer appeal to their self image. Names of cigarettes are constantly printed on all types of clothing apparel wearing this clothing promotes cigarettes and appeals to the teen age eye. All teenagers want the latest clothes so if we stop the making of this apparel then teenagers could stop seeing this as the latest fashion and stop wanting to wear it. Most all teenagers watch some form of a movie or television show. Some teens have idols that they look up to and if their idol smokes in a movie the teen thinks they should do it also. If we ban smoking on TV and movies then kids won't want to smoke because they see the actors doing it. As you can see there are many benefits to reducing cigarette advertising.

Another solution would be to increase the education about smoking. After school programs that teach about smoking should be held. Teens would then know what they are putting in their mouth when they pick up a cigarette. It would also teach them about all the different diseases that you can get from smoking. Also a meeting of parents and students should be called. This could let parents know what they are doing to their kids when they buy cigarettes for them. After this happened parents might not buy anymore cigarettes for their kids because they care about their child's health. Since teens think that smoking makes them look cool self esteem classes should be held. These classes would boost the self esteem of the teens that choose to smoke. Teens would then find out that smoking isn't cool and doesn't boost their self esteem. As you can see education is a good solution to reduce teen smoking.

Next, I think that fighting the media and reducing ads would be the more effective solution. Since TV's are available all over the world this solution would have a larger effect. This global effect could impact teens all over the world than one class in one state. Millions of teens watch TV therefore the effect would be much greater. This solution is also a lot

Globalizing Tobacco Control Rodney

Reid,2005-12-20 Reid develops an approach to globalization and health that goes beyond simplistic dichotomies such as the puritanism of the United States in contrast with the more libertine cultures of other countries and he also eschews the equally simplistic view that the world is becoming homogenized David J Hess Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute A tangible aspect of living working and traveling in the 21st century is the experience of moving between smoke filled and smoke free environments In Globalizing Tobacco Control Rodney Reid examines what lies behind this experience the revolution in public attitudes and health codes that regulate daily routines and the life of the body While the gradual replacement of smoking with non smoking as the social norm is a global phenomenon it has not followed the same trajectory everywhere Reid compares anti smoking campaigns in the United States France and Japan for what they reveal about the nature of globalization and liberal arts of government He explores distinctive national histories of tobacco evolving global marketing strategies of transnational tobacco corporations social marketing techniques used to tailor public health messages to particular ethnic communities and the programs of international public health organizations

How to Stop Smoking Gilad James,

PhD, Smoking is a habit that many people find difficult to quit However it is essential to stop smoking due to its harmful effects on health The first step in quitting smoking is to acknowledge that it is an addiction and like all addictions it requires a significant amount of willpower and support Nicotine patches gum and other cessation aids can help to reduce cravings but the real secret to quitting smoking is to stay motivated and determined Another vital aspect of quitting smoking is to identify the triggers that lead to smoking For instance you may smoke when you are stressed out or when around other smokers Once you identify the triggers it is important to avoid them or find alternative ways to deal with them Drinking plenty of water exercising and finding other healthy habits can help to reduce cravings and keep you on track to quit smoking Ultimately quitting smoking is a journey that requires patience persistence and a positive attitude With the right mindset and support network anyone can successfully quit smoking and improve their health and wellbeing
