The Quarters English Edition:

The Justice Facade Alexander Hinton, 2018-03-16 What is Justice Is it always just to come Can real experience be translated into law Examining Cambodia's troubled reconciliation Alexander Hinton suggests an approach to justice founded on global ideals of the rule of law democratization and a progressive trajectory towards liberty and freedom and which seeks to align the country with so called universal modes of thought is condemned to failure Instead Hinton advocates focusing on the individual lived experience and the discourses interstices and the combusive encounters connected with it as a radical alternative A phenomenology inspired approach towards healing national trauma Hinton's ground breaking text will make anybody with an interest in transitional justice development humanitarian intervention human rights or peacebuilding question the value of an established truth

Treason in the Northern Quarter Henk van Nierop, 2017-12-31 In the spring of 1575 Holland's Northern Quarter the waterlogged peninsula stretching from Amsterdam to the North Sea was threatened with imminent invasion by the Spanish army Since the outbreak of the Dutch Revolt a few years earlier the Spanish had repeatedly failed to expel the rebels under William of Orange from this remote region and now there were rumors that the war weary population harbored traitors conspiring to help the Spanish invade In response rebel leaders arrested a number of vagrants and peasants put them on the rack and brutally tortured them until they confessed and named their principals a witch hunt that eventually led to a young Catholic lawyer named Jan Jeroenszoon Treason in the Northern Quarter tells how Jan Jeroenszoon through great personal courage and faith in the rule of law managed to survive gruesome torture and vindicate himself by successfully arguing at trial that the authorities remained subject to the law even in times of war Henk van Nierop uses Jan Jeroenszoon's exceptional story to give the first account of the Dutch Revolt from the point of view of its ordinary victims town burghers fugitive Catholic clergy peasants and vagabonds For them the Dutch Revolt was not a heroic struggle for national liberation

but an ordinary dirty war something to be survived not won An enthralling account of an unsuspected story with surprising modern resonance Treason in the Northern Quarter presents a new image of the Dutch Revolt one that will fascinate anyone interested in the nature of revolution and civil war or the fate of law during wartime

Inventing Americans in the Age of Discovery Michael Householder, 2016-05-06 Inventing Americans in the Age of Discovery traces the linguistic rhetorical and literary innovations that emerged out of the first encounters between Europeans and indigenous peoples of the Americas Through analysis of six texts Michael Householder demonstrates the role of language in forming the identities or characters that permitted Europeans English speakers primarily to adapt to the unusual circumstances of encounter Arranged chronologically the texts examined include John Mandeville's Travels Richard Eden's English language translations of the accounts of Spanish and Portuguese discovery and conquest George Best's account of Martin Frobisher's voyages to northern Canada Ralph Lane's account of the abandonment of Roanoke John Smith's writings about Virginia and John Underhill's account of the Pequot War Through his analysis Householder reveals that English colonists did not share a universal homogenous view of indigenous Americans as savages but that the writers confronted by unfamiliar peoples and situations resorted to a mixed array of cultural beliefs myths and theories to put together workable explanations of their experiences which then became the basis for how Europeans in the colonies began transforming themselves into Americans
